2 Freed In 'Kickbacks'

Neff And 4 Others Ordered Held For Grand Jury Quiz

Samuel G. Neff, ex-Democratic boss of Beaver County and a former state senator, and four others were bound over to the September Grand Jury in Beaver County today on charges of accepting illegal kickbacks from highway contractors. Two others were freed.

Justice of the Peace Frank Storar of Baden held Neff, Robert Yoho, former Homewood burgess and an ex-employe of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund office; James Macry, a political supporter of Neff; Leon Koleta, former State Highway Department employe, and Edward Nitsche, former assistant highway superintendent in Beaver County, under $2,000 bonds each on charges of extortion and conspiracy to commit extortion through the collection of alleged kickbacks from Beaver County contractors leasing heavy equipment to the State Highways Department.

The Grand Jury will convene Monday in Beaver.

Similar charges against George Mazzant, also a former assistant county highway superintendent, and Paul Fesler, a former State Highway Department employe, were dismissed by the justice.

Storar handed down his findings following a lengthy hearing which started Friday and saw Nitsche turn state's evidence by testifying that Neff had instructed him to collect contributions for Neff's campaign for Democratic county chairman.

In summing up the state's case today, District Atty. Richard P. Steward declared the evidence indicates "complicity and wrong-doing against the citizens of Beaver County and Pennsylvania who were robbed blind by a scheme widely known to the public and seldom prosecuted."

Declaring it was the work "of a machine," Steward declared, "Unless every devious part of such a scheme is ferreted out, justice can never come about. This unlawful milking of the public's money must stop."

In his testimony, Nitsche said Neff told him the contributions were to take the form of 5 per cent of the money the contractors received for leasing heavy equipment to the highway department.

Nitsche quoted Neff as saying, " 'If they don't pay, don't use their equipment'."

He said he made collections from six contractors, including Joseph Bogovich of Beaver and Grayn Denny of Beaver Falls, but a seventh refused to contribute and his equipment wasn't used.

Nitsche also testified that on each of 8 or 10 occasions he turned over cash to Neff totaling between $2,000 and $2,500.

Bogovich testified he realized $27,000 from 1955 to 1959 by leasing heavy equipment and paid between $2,000 and $2,500 to the Democratic party as political contributions.

Senate Eyes Civil Rights, Foreign Aid

Major Legislation Could Spoil Monday Adjournment Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mixed brew of civil rights and foreign aid is served up in the Senate today as Congress approaches adjournment.

The controversy swirling about the last major piece of legislation could boil over and spoil plans for an early wrap-up.

But leaders were hopeful that the lid would not blow off and that Congress could finish its work by Monday.

There even seemed to be a long-shot possibility that the session would end late Saturday night, as evidenced by the decision of the House to meet and stand by to see what happens in the Senate.

Up for Senate action is a $3,691,269,508 catchall money bill. The great bulk, $3,281,813,000, is for foreign aid.

Although the foreign aid total is 648 million dollars below President Eisenhower's original request, the big fight was expected over a move to hook a civil rights rider on the appropriations measure.

The rider, strongly opposed by Southern senators, would extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission for two years and give it $500,000 for the current fiscal year. The commission is scheduled to go out of existence Nov. 9.

Attaching the extension measure to the money bill requires a suspension of a Senate rule barring legislation in an appropriation bill. It takes a two-thirds majority to do this. If attached, the rider could be adopted by a majority vote.

Southerners could filibuster against the move. But they are aware that if they do, they may touch off a drive by civil rights advocates to pass a measure the Southerners would find harder to stomach.

In any event, Southern senators planned to blast anew a report by the commission on its investigation of voting rights and of civil rights in the fields of education and housing.

The House was reported ready to act as soon as the Senate passes the money bill.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union fired another rocket toward the moon today and said it would help open the way to interplanetary flights.

This new rocket was launched into space at 25,162 m.p.h. on the weekend before Premier Nikita Khrushchev makes his heralded visit to the United States.

The announcement of the new launching made no mention of any passenger, not even a dog such as previous Soviet rockets had carried. There had been suggestions in the West that the Soviets might launch a man into space to coincide with Khrushchev's arrival in the United States.

The United States fired a rocket carrying a 13-pound satellite past the moon and into solar orbit last March 2. It sent back clear radio signals from more than 400,000 miles out in space and then went dead four days later.

Today's Soviet moon rocket was the Soviet Union's second attempt. On Jan. 2 the Soviets announced firing a 1½-ton satellite into orbit around the sun. It passed close to the moon. Radio contact with this first Soviet moon shot was lost at 374,000 miles.

Today's launching had great political significance here.

The announcement electrified this nation, which is preparng an enthusiastic send-off for Premier Khrushchev, who leaves Tuesday for conversations with President Eisenhower.

The rocket's various parts were crammed with scientific instruments designed, among other things, to make studies of the magnetic fields of earth and moon. Soviet scientists appeared confident the shoot will be successful.

The announcement, for which all Moscow Soviet radio programs were interrupted, said: "In accordance with the program for space exploration and preparations for interplanetary flight, the Soviet Union today successfully launched the second space rocket.

"The rocket has been fired to study the cosmic space en route to the moon."

"It is expected to reach the moon at 12:05 a.m. Moscow time Sept. 13," the announcement said. That is 5:05 p.m. Sunday, Eastern daylight Time. The moon is a target about 2,160 miles in diameter about 240,000 miles away from the earth.

Like the first Soviet cosmic rocket, fired the first of the year, the new one will shoot out of a sodium cloud that should be visible from the earth, the announcement said. But it will not be visible over the United States, the announcement added.

The "shot at the moon" today beat the cosmic time schedule of U.S. scientists, who reportedly were planning to send up a 375-pound satellite to go into orbit around the moon some time in October.

The Soviet scientists did not disclose the nature of the rocket's sources of energy.

The Soviet Union's first cosmic rocket, named Mechta (Dream), was launched Jan. 2 and the Russians said it whizzed past the moon two days later.

They said it finally rocketed out into space and went into orbit around the sun—believed to be the solar system's first artificial planet.

The Russians now have announced two moon probes. There is no indication whether there have been others that were not as successful.

The U.S. Pioneer IV also is orbiting around the sun. It shot past the moon on March 4 and is now circling the sun.

2 Cars Damaged When Wrong Pedal Is Pushed

Two autos were damaged, one extensively, when a motorist accidentally stepped on the accelerator rather than the brake Friday, police reported.

Lawrence A. White, 80, of Elysian Way told officers he was backing into a space on Washington St. about 10 a. m. when his foot struck the gas pedal and his car plunged into the parked station wagon of John A. Pappas of Columbus and shoved it into another parked car owned by Frank H. Simcox of Calcutta.

The entire front end of Pappas' station wagon was damaged along with some damage to the rear. The rear fender and bumper of White's sedan also were damaged. Police did not list any damage to the Simcox car.

Speedy Trial Being Sought In Bombings

Five Are Accused In Little Rock Case; More Arrests Loom

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Authorities wrapping up the case of three Little Rock bombings said a quick trial would be sought for five accused men.

A possibility of further arrests remained today, but Police Chief Eugene Smith said only "loose ends" had to be gathered up.

Those charged are E. A. Lauderdale Sr., 48, lumber dealer and segregationist leader; J. D. Sims, 35, truck driver; Jesse Raymond Perry, 24, truck driver; John Taylor Coggins, 39, auto salesman; and Samuel Graydon Beavers, 42, a carpenter.

The first three were charged in the dynamite bombing of the Little Rock School Board's offices and a station wagon belonging to Fire Chief Gann Nalley. The other two were charged in a blast at the business office of Mayor Werner Knoop.

No one was hurt in the Labor Day bombings.

Prosecutor J. Frank Holt filed the charges in Pulaski Circuit Court and said he would seek arraignment early next week and trial "as soon as possible."

All the men were placed under $50,000 bond on a charge of destroying property with explsoives, a felony punishable by up to five years imprisonment and $500 fine. Lauderdale made bond while the others remained in jail.

Funeral Set Monday For Paul Douglas

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Private funeral services for actor Paul Douglas will be conducted Monday in a Hollywood mortuary.

Douglas, 52, died of a heart attack in his home Friday.

A fire department rescue squad called to the home Friday arrived too late. With the actor at the time were his wife, actress Jan Sterling, and his physician, Dr. Lee E. Siegel.

Douglas was known for light comedy roles as well as his more serious portrayals.

He had just finished a television show, "The Mighty Casey," in which he portrayed a baseball team manager. The show has not yet been released.

Another recent telvision show in which he appeared was "The Incorrigibles."

Among some of his movies were "Solid Gold Cadillac," "Executive Suite," "Never Wave at a WAC," "It Happens Every Spring," and "Letter to Three Wives."

He appeared in Broadway plays "Born Yesterday" and "Hole in the Head."

Jail Breakers Remain Free

Deputy Improves With Head Wounds

A search continued today for two prisoners who escaped from the Hancock County Jail at New Cumberland early Friday after slugging a deputy with a heavy steel bar.

The sheriff's office said all police agencies in the tri-state area have been alerted for Walter Cox Steiner, 19, and Robert Thomas Williams, 29, both of Weirton, who overpowered Deputy William B. King Jr. during the break.

At midmorning, Weirton police received a tip that an unidentified car containing two men and four women was seen in the vicinity where Steiner's girlfried resides. When police arrived, the car had vanished and there were no clues as to its whereabouts.

King is improving today at Weirton General Hospital with two head wounds which required 27 stitches to close.

Five cruisers were being utilized in the countywide search today. Deputies said no new leads have turned up and they have no indication as to which direction the two took in their flight.

The jail break was termed "well planned" by the deputies. Steiner was being held for Naval authorities as an AWOL from a Florida base and Williams was awaiting action by the September Grand Jury on four charges of breaking and entering Weirton area business establishments.

Ike May Soon Enter Strike, Report Hints

Governors Launch Move To Bring Him Into Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiations in the 60-day-old steel strike continued today with increasing indications that the White House may soon take a hand to end the crippling walkout.

The National Governors Conference Friday launched a move intended to bring President Eisenhower into the negotiations.

The President has maintained that he plans no direct action until the national health and safety are threatened. At that point he is expected to invoke the power granted to him under the Taft-Hartley Act and force both sides to resume production for an 80-day period.

Such a move was not expected until next month, but reports are that strike effects are now approaching crippling proportions for the national economy.

Besides the half million steelworkers idled by the strike 175,000 other workers in allied fields have been laid off, and steel inventories, acquired before the strike in anticipation of a shutdown, are reported to be running out. Many small companies are halting production.

This was the background Friday as the National Governors Conference announced it would poll key governors next week on the desirability of seeking a meeting on the matter with President Eisenhower.

Georgetown Pair Hurt In Hookstown Wreck

A Georgetown area couple was admitted to City Hospital Friday at 8 p. m. after a traffic accident near Hookstown.

Ford Reed, 62, of Georgetown R. D. 1 suffered possible chest injuries and contusions of the right knee and is in "fair" condition.

His wife, a passenger, suffered contusions and a puncture wound of the right knee and abrasions of the forehead. She is in "fairly good" condition.

Neither the Rochester nor Carnegie barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police had a report of the accident.

SEWANEE, Tenn. (AP) — A light plane crashed and exploded in flames near here Friday, killing a young college student from Maryland, his parents and the pilot.

Appeasing Red China

India Parliament Heckles Premier

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru was heckled by opposition members in Parliament today on charges of appeasing Red China in the border dispute.

They called on the government to use bombs—if necessary — to dislodge Chinese Communist troops from Indian territory.

Nehru angrily accused the opposition of unrealistic "brave gestures" and rejected the suggestion to use force.

The flareup came even as Nikita S. Khrushchev appeared to be making headway in getting Peiping and the Nehru government to cool off their hot border dispute which has been casting a shadow over his impending mission to the United States.

After days of flinging bitter charges of aggression against each other, the two giant Asian countries gently tossed out peace feelers Friday in their quarrel involving roughly 35,000 square miles of frontier territory.

Red China's parliamentary Standing Committee, called into a special session Friday to hear a report on the dispute, is meeting again today.

Peiping and New Delhi have both welcomed the Moscow statement on Wednesday appealing to them to resolve their border feud peacefully.

A pro-Communist Indian weekly this morning suggested Khrushchev may offer himself as an intermediary after his 12-day tour of the United States beginning Tuesday with the professed purpose of easing international tensions.

The Soviet Premier has announced already he will visit Peiping for conferences with Chinese Communist leaders Sept. 29 on his return home.

Under the headline "Khrushchev may visit Delhi after Peiping," the leftist Bombay newspaper Blitz speculated this morning in a frontpage story.

"He will certainly use this occasion to begin moves for a settlement of the India-China dispute," Blitz said. "It is not unlikely that the irrepressible Soviet leader might make a dramatic personal appeal at Delhi on a peace mission."

Official Indian sources say they know nothing to confirm rumors that Khrushchev may visit New Delhi.

Couple Nabs 2 Men Robbing Area Tavern

An East Liverpool man and another from Newton Falls await hearings after they were surprised in a robbery of a tavern early today by the couple who operate the establishment.

They are due before Judge James L. MacDonald for breaking and entering the Bar X Tavern on the old Y. & O. Rd. just off Route 30, at Rock Camp, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

Norman L. Ferguson, 27, of Dixonville and his cousin, Dale L. Musser, 22, of Newton Falls were nabbed at 2:45 a. m. by Claude and Betty Williams, owners of the tavern.

Williams had just finished cleaning and scrubbing the tavern and was locking up when he saw a car drive slowly past. He went to the porch of his home, which is south of the tavern, and continued to watch. When he saw a man get out of the car and go to the tavern, he aroused his wife and they investigated, arming themselves with a shotgun and revolver.

Mrs. Williams, covered Ferguson who pretended his car was disabled, and Williams went into the tavern and got Musser, who had forced open a window to gain entrance, the sheriff said.

Williams held them at gunpoint while his wife called the sheriff's department. Deputy Herman Wellman was in the vicinity and arrived in four minutes and placed the two under arrest, conveying them to the County Jail.

Sheriff VanFossan said the car belongs to Musser. Two black poplin masks were found in the car and area police and sheriff's departments have been notified of this evidence. They were not armed and they did not have any guns in the car, he said.

Gas Concern Boosts Rates In Panhandle

Manufacturers Firm Starts Increase As State Debates Rise

Natural gas for 49,000 users in the Northern Panhandle, including Hancock County, costs about 20 per cent more starting today.

Their individual bills are expected to go up by 4 to 11 cents a day. Some of them have to pay, in addition, a surcharge to cover local gross sales taxes.

The increases are being put into effect by the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. under an arrangement that is a tentative.

The company may have to make refunds on the extra money it collects.

The explanation is that the rate changes still are being considered by the Public Service Commission at Charleston. Another hearing, in fact, is set for Sept. 29. The increases can be charged starting today because state law sets a limit on how long the PSC can withhold its decision with nothing happening.

Suspension of new rates can run only 120 days. That period now is up in the Manufacturers case. Therefore, they can be applied un-

Best Education For Your Child

Help Johnny With Work, But Don't Let Him Loaf

This is the fifth of 15 articles, condensed from the book, "How To Get the Best Education for Your Child," written by the former education editor of the New York Times and his wife, an educator herself.

By DR. BENJAMIN FINE AND LILLIAN FINE

Something new enters the life of the parent of a fourth-grader and continues throughout the rest of the child's school career—homework.

Those first assignments may be easy and the child is often very excited by them, but as he goes up the educational ladder they increase in difficulty and so does his resentment.

You should take an interest in all this. You can ask him about his work and often volunteer to help him, if you think he needs help.

Rules can be set up that will clarify your attitude toward his homework: no television until the work is done; no telephone conversations except those related to schoolwork; no postponement of work with the excuse, "I can easily do it when I get up tomorrow morning".

Once he has accepted your stand there will be relatively little trouble, although you will have to break down a number of fairly convincing arguments on why it is important that he see a certain program.

ALTHOUGH it may be extremely monotonous to go over a list of 20 spelling words with your fifth-grader, always bear in mind that it makes him very happy that you are interested enough to take time out to help him.

Don't overdo insistence on homework so that it becomes a point of rebellion. We see no harm in moderate doses of meaningful, interesting homework assignments.

Should parents try to help a child who is having trouble with a particular subject? Some people believe parents should keep a "hands off" attitude, lest the child become confused by different methods or fail to learn to work things out for himself. Certainly no parent should do assignments and let the child loaf. But if a child seeks help or suggestions, a parent should not discourage him.

You are likely to find that high school work isn't as easy as it used to be! What's the difference between a sine and a cosine? What verbs take a predicate noun?

WHEN YOUR CHILD demands a quick answer to questions such as these, it is tempting to say, "Can't you see I am busy?" But that's not fair, and if you take a quick look at the index of the book your child is using, you can usually find the page with the answer. Then you can say, "See, it's right here in the book."

There are always ways you can help. You can be considerate. You can be constructive. And you can be attentive.

"Mother, please read my English paper and tell me what you think," a young fellow asked in a home where we visited recently. His mother took the paper, glanced over it rapidly, and said, "That's fine, George, I'm sure your teacher will be pleased." Silently George held out his hand for the paper. He knew she hadn't read it.

The Wickers go to the other extreme.

"Let me see what you've done with your homework," the father will say. His daughter hands him the paper reluctantly. She knows what is coming. He reads it slowly, shakes his head, finally says, "This isn't high school work. Sounds like a seventh grade composition. You'll have to do better than that if you ever expect to graduate." His daughter bites her lip and the color drains from her face.

PROBABLY BARBARA'S composition is rather dull, but why not give her some constructive criticism?

Independent home projects can be fostered by making the proper information and equipment available to your child. Some children will want to set up chemical laboratories or atomic workshops in the basement or garage; such enterprises if permitted need careful supervision for obvious reasons.

Parents can encourage good study habits by providing a reasonably quiet place to study, a good-sized desk or table, a good light, and reference books such as a dictionary and an atlas. Youngsters should get in the habit of having a regular time and place for study and of assembling the various materials they need before they begin to work.

The need for reference books in the home grows steadily. A big dictionary is a most desirable addition to the family library. An atlas and a copy of a recent World Almanac are likewise needed. What about an encyclopedia? Teachers and librarians are somewhat divided about the need for this. Some children use a good children's encyclopedia with profit. It may not be necessary to buy the latest or the expensive sets.

ANOTHER SKILL important in modern living is typewriting. There is sound evidence that possession of a typewriter and ability to type do improve marks and encourage habits of neatness, correct spelling, and accuracy. But typewriters are not cheap. Before investing you should be sure youngsters will take good care of one.

Many parents try to supplement the school's offerings with extras —music lessons, dancing lessons, coaching in various sports, and so on. This may be excellent but, aside from the strain on the family budget, if overdone it can have undesirable results. A child's time may be so filled with lessons and practicing that he has no time for fun.

Grade school years are a time for healthy growth and for gaining increased competence in living with others. Anything that interferes markedly with this is likely to be a mistake.

Adolescents tend to eat unwisely and not too well. It is a common practice to skip breakfast. Some youngsters can be persuaded to swallow a glass of orange juice or milk in which an egg has been beaten.

SOME BOYS, especially those with athletic ambitions, will eat cereals. Knowledge of what a balanced diet will do for complexion and hair may lead a teen-age girl to eat more meat and vegetables and less candy.

What has diet to do with education? Experienced teachers claim they can tell quite easily which of their students in morning classes have had a good breakfast.

The adolescent also needs plenty of sleep — but parents often have trouble persuading him of the fact. Here again, it is often possible to reason with youngsters and appeal to their vanity and ambition.

NEXT: Know your school and its teachers.

Defense Plea Disallowed In Court's Ruling

Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw handed down an order Friday afternoon in which he overruled a defense demurrer to the city's charges against a man accused of violating a new ordinance regulating junk yards.

He acted in the case of Paul Berman, 321 W. 9th St., accused of violating a section of the ordinance that provides that "no junk shall be stored in the city unless the same be in a building or enclosed yard."

Atty. Ben H. Berman, who is defending his brother, had filed a demurrer earlier in the week alleging that the facts stated in the city's affidavit "do not constitute an offense punishable by the laws of the city of East Liverpool" and that "there are insufficient facts to constitute an offense. . ." At the same time he questioned the constitutionality of the ordinance, terming it "arbitrary, discriminatory, capricious and unreasonable."

Judge Brokaw did not rule on the question of constitutionality. In connection with the other points raised by the defense, he wrote:

"It will be observed that the ordinance prohibits the keeping or storing of junk outside an enclosure in the city. The affidavit simply alleges that the defendant has stored junk outside an enclosure in the city. If the city can prove the facts, it would seem that the defendant must be found guilty—at least it would amount to a violation."

"As to the constitutionality, there is no need at this stage of the proceedings to make any decision," the judge's order added.

The case, filed Sept. 3, originally was set for trial last Thursday, but was continued indefinitely by agreement of both the prosecution and the defense. Paul Berman entered a not guilty plea the day after his arrest. The case may not be heard for several weeks.

Family Feud Case Shelved

Charges and countercharges filed by two neighboring families after a fight Wednesday at the Valley Trailer Park on Pennsylvania Ave. were continued indefinitely today by Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw at the request of both prosecuting and defense attorneys.

Judge Brokaw warned Mr. and Mrs. John Gerra and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Owens no date will be set for hearings but they can be called up any time "unless you keep the peace up there."

Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark and Atty. John B. McDonald, representing the Owens family, had requested the indefinite continuances. In brief remarks to the court, both said the testimony would be conflicting and it would be difficult to determine who was guilty.

Judge Brokaw commented, "I won't dismiss the charges. I know you are guilty of something."

He declared that when the neighborhood dispute turned to fisticuffs "all involved were guilty of fighting."

"It's like a bunch of undeveloped children when you look at it objectively," Judge Brokaw added.

Gerra had charged Owens with assaulting him Wednesday but Owens pleaded not guilty at arraignment Thursday and posted a $56 bond for the hearing today.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Owens filed a countercharge of assault against Mrs. Gerra, accusing her of "striking and biting" her.

Mrs. Gerra also filed an assault charge against an out - of - town man but it was never served.

Neff

The contractor said the payments were made to Nitsche, Yoho, Koleta, Fesler and John Brkich in cash but made no payments directly to Neff.

Denny testified he leased heavy equipment to the department from 1952 to 1957 "and I paid my 5 per cent right along." He related one instance in which he wrote an $80 check to cover his contribution and handed it to Nitsche but Neff demanded cash and Nitsche put the check in his pocket.

Harry Dreyfus, a former highway department employe and now a merchant in New Brighton, testified he made out a check for $50 to the Democratic party in 1955 or 1956 and gave it to a collector for Neff. Later, Dreyfus said, he was approached by Macry and was told that all checks should be made out to Neff and not to the party.

Asked whether the contributions were voluntary, Dreyfus said, "No. I was told that if I wanted to work in the State Highway Department, I would have to buy tickets and make donations."

In a compromise agreement approved by the Beaver County Courts, Steward agreed last night to have the law firm of Hudacsek & Lewis of Beaver Falls work with him in presenting to the grand jury the criminal libel charges filed by Neff.

Neff accused Auditor Gen. Charles C. Smith, J. Alexander Jacobs, his deputy, and Ralph Temples, managing editor of the Beaver Valley Times. The charges resulted as the aftermath of a report by the Auditor general on the highway investigation.

As a result of the probe, Neff lost his $12,500 job as head of the Workingmen's Insurance Fund.

Leading in the presentation to the Grand Jury will be the district attorney, the court said, and he may be aided by Neff's private counsel with costs of counsel to be handled by the prosecution.

The court said to present the case propertly, efforts must be beyond any suspicion. Steward agreed on the grounds of fairness to all involved.

The agreement followed a 45-minute conference before Steward, Clarence Neish and Joseph Walko, his assistants, Neff's counsel, Louis Glasso of Pittsburgh, Hudacsek & Lewis, and Judges Morgan Sohn and Robert McCreary.

The hearing was on a petition by Neff to have Steward be superceded.

Without the highways extortion cases, there are 69 cases scheduled for the Grand Jury.

Canada's population in 1959 is an estimated 17,284,000, compared with 3,230,000 in 1861.

Clothing Fire Burns Man, 20

A city man, seriously burned when his clothing caught fire early today, was admitted to City Hospital where four other persons were treated for minor injuries Friday.

Harold Johnston, 20, of 306 E. Church Ln. is in "fairly good" condition with first and second degree burns to the lower part of his body. He was admitted at 12:55 a. m. today.

Johnston spilled gasoline on his trousers as he was fueling a car. He then lighted a cigarette and his clothing flared.

The hospital said he was burned on the right leg and thigh, the left thigh and right hand. He also suffered abrasions of the right hand.

Mrs. Dorothy Hardwick of 1st Ave. injured her foot in a fall at home about noon yesterday.

Mrs. Ralph Clutter of Etruria St. injured her left ankle and wrist in a fall from the porch steps at home.

Dennie Haught, 8, son of Lawrence Haught, 228 Washington St., Newell, suffered a laceration of the left forehead in a fall from a bicycle.

Bradley McCullough, 3, son of Fred McCullough, 1909 Bank St., caught his foot in the spokes of a bicycle wheel and suffered a sprain and abrasions of the left ankle.

Should less than the amount asked be allowed, refunds then will have to be made. The PSC can take as long as need be with the case.

Altogether, Manufacturers wants bills to its West Virginia customers to go up $2,057,000 a year. Last May 15, it was allowed to put into effect a small portion of the total increase to cover higher wholesale gas charges.

It is the full increase that means bills going up 20 per cent on the average and, for the typical customer, from 4 to 11 cents more a day, depending upon whether he uses gas for heating.

The minimum under the new scale is $1 a month more for those who heat with gas, or $4.15 for the first 1,000 cubic feet, compared to $3.15 for non-heating customers.

Customers in Wheeling, New Martinsville, Wellsburg, Benwood, Cameron, Follansbee, Glen Dale, McMechen, Middlebourne and Moundsville are the ones being hit for the surcharge.

The company is passing along to them the municipal gross sales taxes it pays in these cities nad towns.

Eisenhower's Greatest Gamble

No one could claim, much less prove, that President Eisenhower brought his two-term presidency to a grand climax in the events of 1959.

That is how it has turned out, however.

At home, he has closed the issue with the inflation bloc in the Democratic party by taking a position in defense of sound money.

Abroad, he has taken the role of spokesman for the free nations challenged by the restless policies of the Kremlin to prove they can pool their efforts in a settlement that might change the cold war into a cold truce or perhaps even a semblance of peace.

The man whose historic gamble in 1945 made the cross-Channel invasion possible is now in the midst of a gamble which makes that former one seem like a sure thing by comparison.

If his decision to meet Premier Khrushchev face to face in a home-and-home conversation produces nothing but recriminations, as it might well do in the light of the Soviet Union's bad record for good faith, President Eisenhower will be at best the object of sympathy and at worst the object of ridicule.

If his decision to go contrary to the political instinct of most politicians by taking a stand for financial conservation in an era of reckless spending and on-the-cuff financing hurts the Republican party at the polls, he will be chopped into oblivion by the political hatchetmen who make it their business to discredit leaders who have hurt the party.

NOTICE OF THESE potential setbacks has been served on Mr. Eisenhower and presumably on posterity by Sen. Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. In a Sept. 9 speech, Sen. Fulbright warned the President that Democrats who favored virtually unlimited spending for all the things they thought the United States needed were not being fooled by his efforts in personal diplomacy and budget-balancing.

As far as they were concerned, he was a failure.

These Democrats, warned Sen. Fulbright, would pounce on Mr. Eisenhower at the first sign that he had been unable to save the world or to keep the inflation bloc from blowing the cost of living a little higher by stretching the national credit a little further.

Meanwhile, other Democrats were moving in their own way to make it harder for the government to get the credit they were stretching with incessant demands for more and more spending. They rebuffed him on a pork-barrel veto and stood ready to unbalance his balanced budget.

Both in the words of Sen. Fulbright and other spokesmen for his party, the President was being warned that everything possible would be done to block and obstruct any negotiation that might grow out of his forthcoming talks with Premier Khrushchev.

THESE PEOPLE have pointed out repeatedly that they disagree deeply with the credo that the country can be saved by saving the value of its money. They are committed, with few exceptions — such as Sen. Byrd of Virginia and Sen. Lausche of Ohio — to an accelerated rate of public spending in the name of national security.

They do not say so if they can avoid it, but they also are committed in their own writing and speaking to an accelerated rate of taxing. That would come later, after they had made further multi-billion increases in the national debt.

The two paramount issues of the era are foreign policy and financial management. They are the paramount issues of all eras, as far as that is concerned, though it sometimes is made to appear that minor issues have become more important.

President Eisenhower has tackled both paramount issues head-on.

No president ever brought an administration to a showdown on a grander scale. No president ever risked the possibility of a more shattering rebuff.

Congress Adjourns Eventually

Everything that this session of Congress has done could have been finished early in July, if that had been the idea. Obviously, it wasn't the idea.

As Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was saying the other day, quoting his fellow Democrat, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, it might be a good thing for Congress to stay in session 365 days a year. There is more wisdom in that than Sen. Morse could be expected to recognize.

If Congress were supposed to stay in session continuously, there would be an irresistible desire to go home as soon as possible each year. But Congress is supposed to go home each year by July; therefore, it stays in session as long as possible.

In fact, the only way to get it to go home, unless there's a congressional election coming up, is to set an arbitrary deadline. This year, the arbitrary deadline, which first was set at Labor Day, subsequently was moved back to the arrival of Premier Khrushchev.

It could just as easily have been something else, like the beginning of school, the annual pollination of goldenrod, or the Miss America shindig at Atlantic City. Whatever it turns out to be, adjournment date is arbitrary—a kind of legislative hurdle that everybody must clear on the say-so of the ringmaster.

The fact is, of course, that members of Congress need vacations like the rest of us. The fact is, they haven't had any this year, and whatever they have in mind that requires clement weather had better be done soon or it will not be worth doing.

The further fact is, air-conditioning, the lack of which used to drive even filibusterers out of steaming Washington, now is almost universal in Washington but still spotty in the home districts and state of the legislators. They lack the incentive to go home that formerly was supplied by their discomfort on duty.

And the still further fact is that there finally comes a time when Congress has no possible excuse to stay in session any longer.

There is nothing left to do. All the advantage has been wrung out of the circumstances of the session. All the speeches have been made and the vendettas carried out with relentless vigor. The Congressional Record, that compendium of everything not left unsaid, has been filled to overflowing.

Actually, the time came to go home long ago. But now the time has come to acknowledge that the time has come. As "The September Song" puts it, this is no time for the waiting game.

Untamed Williwaw

Nothing makes the subtropics seem more uninviting than an overdose of high temperatures and high humidity in Ohio. But it is hardly called for in a climate that so rarely turns tropcial to exult over the first sharp reminder that frost is due before the end of the month.

Up north in the 49th state of Alaska, what happened here when the heat wave was routed by a cold front would have been called a "williwaw," the chilling wind that heralds the settling in of another long winter. It's not that serious here; there will be many more nice days before the last holdout is driven into an overcoat.

But it's always sad when gardens wither and flowers quit blooming, when leaves fall and heating bills rise. The bite of the untamed williwaw varies in severity, but no one ever said it was painless.

In the cold gray months ahead it will be nice to remember that September blaster—the clear, blue sky—the burning sun—the shimmering pavements—even the electric fans and the whirring air-conditioners. Who remembers furnaces, snow drifts, skidding cars, snow shovels, wet feet and frostbitten fingers with anything but loathing? And who thinks of the williwaw with anything but sorrow, whether it blows literally in Alaska or figuratively in Ohio?

The Once Over

The world's most modern race track is Gotham's new Aqueduct. It's so spacious customers can get tougher workouts than horses. The track has three times more space in which to get wrong tips than any oval in the United States.

It has 18 escalators. Imagine trying to make a firm decision on a moving stairway! What does it do to your nervous system if on the "going-up" escalator with one piece of feedbox advice you get a tip from a tout passing you on the down escalator?

Elevators can be a comfort to racing fans. These folks have more aching feet per hour than any group in the world. But an alibi is an alibi and there will be many fans squawking, "I would of had the winner, but I got off at the wrong floor."

MORE THAN 4,000 CARS can be parked at the track. Why not a used-car lot where a fan who has lost the daily double and eight straight races can turn in his car for cash?

The Aqueduct grandstand is as high as a 10-story building. It is the first track to have its own subway station. When a fan goes broke and has to walk home his excuse to the wife can be, "The subway was a hot tip and off my own figures I liked it. But I got switched by a bum who told me that my feet couldn't lose."

Aqueduct has shot the works. On opening day we demand a paddock parade of architects, landscape gardeners and cement mixers.

The first transcontinental airmail service in the U. S. started on Feb. 22, 1921, when a plane left San Francisco and arrived in Long Island the next day, 33 hours and 20 minutes later. Complete airmail service across-country was established on July 1, 1924.

The Power Of Faith

By Howard Brodie

Translating the word of God into the myriad tongues of the world is the seemingly impossible job that occupies and inspires the Wycliffe Bible Translators.

Trained in survival camps to build huts, handle dugout canoes and live off the land, these volunteers, both men and women, penetrate the most remote regions on earth to record unwritten languages and bring literacy, civilization and Christianity to all peoples.

Translations have been started on more than 200 languages, but their aim and hope is to bring the word of God to the 2,000 remaining Bible-less tongues.

The organization is guided by William Cameron Townsend, who was instrumental in founding it 25 years ago after recovering from tuberculosis. He had contracted the disease while living with a tribe in Guatemala and translating the New Testament in their language.

From world headquarters in Glendale, Calif., the organization today sends some 1,000 volunteer translators, teachers, nurses and pilots to Bible missions in Latin America, Alaska and New Guinea.

White House Action Seen Near In Strike

By Victor Riesel

Gen. Eisenhower, in his new civvies, grinned and looked at me for a few seconds. Then he answered my question. I had just asked him how he would settle a grim, deadlocked national steel strike.

Victor Riesel

"You mean, if I were president?"

That was in 1952 in New York's Hotel Commodore. I replied, "When you are president."

The grin came on again and went as swiftly as he replied, "I'd keep the White House neutral. I'd insist that the union and the industry settle it themselves. If they couldn't, I'd call in both sides, so the nation could see them come to the White House and tell them just how seriously this war affecting all the people.

"And I'd tell them the public, the government and the office of the president of the U.S. demand that they get the mills and the men back to work quickly and to work out terms to end the strike. They could not defy an aroused public."

NOW SEVEN YEARS later, almost to the day, it is informed opinion that President Eisenhower is planning to summon strike leader David McDonald and whoever can speak with an authoritative voice for the entire paralyzed industry—probably Roger Blough of U.S. Steel Corp.—to the White House for a personal showdown.

This, apparently, is the strategy behind Mr. Eisenhower's dispatch of the razor-sharp note to both sides the morning after he returned from Scotland.

The President had sent word he wanted that letter ready as soon as he got to the White House executive office.

Labor Secretary James Mitchell, from whom the President is taking virtually all his advice on this home front war, worked all Labor Day weekend on the short but well-guided missive. Mitchell toned it up even during his hop to Pittsburgh.

When he walked in on the President Tuesday morning, he put the completed letter on Mr. Eisenhower's desk.

They read it. There were a few slight changes. The President signed it. An hour after Mitchell left, it was released.

THE STRIKE LEADERS knew it was coming. Industry people did not. The sentiment in steel executive suites was not a happy one. They believed that Mr. Eisenhower was pressuring them.

But all sides were ready to use the President and the White House itself as the setting for a settlement.

Why? Because all sides are fearful of exactly what Gen. Eisenhower predicted back in '52 would be the nation's greatest force — an aroused public.

First, the President knows he has to take some action soon. Mitchell has told him, though now in full detail, that there soon will be one million jobless because of the strike. The stoppage is costing well over 10 million dollars a day in direct traceable funds.

Regardless of what anyone says about enough steel for another two or three months, the metal crisis is here, now, today.

There are 3,000 individual steel products needed to keep the nation rolling. Auto will be out of some of these items shortly. So will the giant appliance industry.

Millions of dollars worth of construction projects already have stopped for lack of special steels. Even after the strike it will take three weeks to heat up the furnaces fully and another 45 days for orders to be filled.

There is the belief in top circles that the final settlement will pivot upon 10 cents an hour more, and that both sides have virtually agreed to such an expenditure.

So the President believes that there is no longer a real issue in this strike but that it will run until one side wants to be able to tag the other with responsibility for new inflation. But that secretly both union and management now know exactly what the settlement will be.

SO MR. EISENHOWER wants them in the White House for an angry showdown if they don't settle within a few weeks.

If a White House session fails, the President then can calmly declare an emergency and end the strike for 80 days under the Taft-Hartley law. He will have done his best.

If either side decides to retreat, it can do so at the conference with the President and then go to its people — be they strikers or stockholders — and say Ike made us do it.

If neither side heeds the President, they'll have the public to reckon with. That could mean a demand for new laws — like future compulsory arbitration, forced settlements.

The public is in the mood for new laws these days.

Fiddler Crab

One of nature's oddities, the fiddler crab changes color like a chameleon, tells time with a built-in "clock" and goes on an eating spree when frustrated in love or war.

The fiddler crab lives in burrows along the coasts of the United States and many foreign lands. It gets its name from the male's greatly enlarged pincer, which is held in bent-elbow fashion suggestive of a violin bow. The male's other pincer is small, as are both those of the female.

Recently scientists have begun to turn up many fascinating facts about this crustacean and a worldwide study is now being made by Miss Jocelyn Crane, assistant director of the New York Zoological Society's Department of Tropical Research.

The fiddler crab has tiny spots which enlarge during the day so that its body becomes dark. This helps camouflage the crab against a beach or mud flat. The spots shrink at night, making the little animal nearly invisible in the moonlight.

The crab is darkest when the tide is lowest. Since low tide occurs about 50 minutes later each day, the moment a crab becomes darkest also comes 50 minutes later each day.

Eskimos are fast becoming the skilled-labor force of the new U. S. state of Alaska. All up and down the coast of the Bering Sea and the Arctic Ocean, Eskimos are abandoning their historic pursuits of hunting and fishing for the more lucrative jobs at airfields and at radar and radio installations, and these hardy people are amazingly adaptive to 20th-century civilization and the machines that make this civilization run.

Ike Asks Mr. K For Sign Of Sincerity

President Eisenhower has served notice on Soviet Premier Khrushchev that there must be from him some sign of sincerity and good faith and of serious intention to negotiate an agreement between the East and the West, if there is to be any summit conference.

David Lawrence

Mr. Eisenhower's television address, carefully prepared after his visits with the statesmen of the Western allied countries in Europe, is a warning that, while American citizens generally must be polite and the American government must show its spirit of goodwill toward the Soviet Premier, these manifestations of courtesy are not to be regarded as a sign of weakness or as any intention to retreat on those principles to which the West is dedicated.

It was not so much the words of the speech—which, to be sure, have been spoken in substance many times before by the President—but the fact that they were uttered on the eve of Mr. Khrushchev's arrival which causes them to take on extraordinary significance.

In effect, Mr. Eisenhower is talking to the whole world. He is explaining the reasons for the exchange of visits and his hope that the American position will not be misconstrued by Mr. Khrushchev or anybody else.

THERE HAVE BEEN misgivings about the Khrushchev tour expressed by many elements inside the United States.

Would the Soviet Premier regard the exchange of visits as a certain forerunner of a summit conference?

Would he take it for granted that the West is going to be content to sacrifice the people of West Berlin rather than to allow another crisis to build up around that issue?

Would the President engage in any private understandings or negotiations with the Soviet Premier without the presence of the heads of the other allied states?

The President covered every point in his speech. He gave an assurance that the United States does not intend to undercut its allies or to reach any agreements prior to a summit conference and that even such a meeting will be held only if there is substantial proof of a serious intention on the part of the Soviets to negotiate an agreement. He said:

"Each of the leaders with whom I talked is fully aware of America's conviction that any agreement to hold a summit meeting must be based upon the certainty that our status and rights in Berlin be respected. In addition, we believe there must be some clear Soviet indication, no matter how given, that serious negotiation will bring about real promise of reducing the causes of world tensions.

"Should a summit meeting on such a basis ensue:

"We and our allies stand ready always to negotiate realistically with the Soviets on any mutually enforceable plan for a reduction in armaments.

"We are prepared to make a real beginning toward solving the problems of a divided Germany.

"We are hopeful of arranging for wider contacts in ideas, publications, persons and information.

"We are, in short, ready to negotiate on any subject within the limits dictated by the dedication of our government and our people, to the cause of a just pace and our loyalty to the United Nations and to its basic concept."

WHAT THIS MEANS is that, in response to a widely expressed view that some talk is better than no talk at all, the President is willing to try conversations with the Soviet Premier but he makes clear that, after all, any real agreements must be made by all the Western Powers together through their chosen leaders.

This implies plainly that the world has not made any real progress since the day when the Conference of the Foreign Ministers was called last spring at Geneva.

No agreements of any value were made there. The Soviets talked and talked but did not withdraw their ultimatum on Berlin.

Will they now do any more at a summit conference? Nobody knows, but anyway the President is willing to give the Soviets a chance to prove their good faith, if they have any.

The fact that Mr. Eisenhower keeps on pleading for some progress in reducing tensions among nations, while the Communists keep the world in a state of constant apprehension—and, indeed, add to the crisis by starting a new series of aggressions in Asia—presents a baffling problem the solution to which may not come for years.

So, as Mr. Khrushchev prepares to leave for America, it is evident that few people in the government here believe much will come of his visit.

In fact, it may serve mostly to prove to the world that the Soviets are bluffing and that Khrushchev, just like Hitler, is trying to get his way by blackmail threats. So long as this kind of situation continues, there will be danger of another world war.

The world will not be able to relax and reduce armaments until the Communist empire is no longer run by an autocratic government.

High Pressure Piracy

SAN FRANCISCO

"There below us," said the personnel executive of a nationally known electronics firm as he gazed at the crowds milling through the Cow Palace, "lies the greatest white slave market in the world today."

This summation of the recent western electronic show and convention has more than a grain of truth in it.

One personnel expert estimated that of the 20,000 or more persons attending the convention, a good 1,000 were recruiters for desperate companies.

And of the others present, another expert guessed, at least a third were attending the four-day show primarily because they wanted to change jobs.

Edward Dear, western manager for a national employment firm retained by not only one, but all 74 companies represented at the show, pointed out that this "piracy" was not only wasteful but highly costly.

"American firms in all fields are spending about two billion dollars a year on recruitment," he said.

"Many of them are defense firms and they haven't cared about the cost because they are allowed to pass it along to the government in their defense contracts."

THE METHODS the recruiters use to hook their fish range all the way from ingenious public relations to downright bribery.

As an example of the latter, one firm set up in a downtown hotel reportedly paid the switchboard operators to route its way all telephone inquiries intended for recruiting offices of other firms in the hotel.

As an example of the former, four pretty Japanese girls made their way through the crowds at the Cow Palace handing out Chinese fortune cookies.

On cracking one open, a prospect found this message:

"A brighter future can be yours at" followed by the name and phone number of the recruiter.

"We've hired some 350 scientists and engineers in the past 10 months to meet a 35-million-dollar expansion program," explained one company's chief recruiter. "And we need another 130 before the year is out.

"There is no question that the engineer is in the driver's seat today."

Most experts agreed that the type of job offered was the most important lure, with area and living conditions second.

Salaries are high but they seem to have become more or less standardized throughout the industry and are a minor factor in "job-shopping."

An engineer with a brand new PHD brings $12,000 a year on the open market, with a BS graduate drawing perhaps $5,000 less.

RECRUITING is deadly serious business. One California aircraft firm budgets one million annually for recruiting advertising alone. That figure does not include the salaries of its army of recruiters, nor the money that goes into wining and dining prospects.

Dear cited one government contractor who spent almost a million dollars to hire 193 engineers. At the same time, this firm lost 130 engineers, for a net gain of only 59—or a unit cost of over $15,000.

And with the hundreds of recruiters swarming around the milling prospects in the Cow Palace, it was safe to say that no one was safe from the happy prospect of being hit over the head with a thick wad of bills and carted off to a new job.

In this regard, an official of one aviation company recalled sadly how his firm sent 10 strong, eager recruiters to a similar convention in Chicago.

"You know," he said somberly, "only four came back."

America's No. 1 card game is still bridge, which continues to gain in popularity. According to surveys made by the U. S.'s $29 million playing-card industry, the number of bridge players in the U. S. has soared from 22 million in 1940 to 35 million today. And, over this span, the number participating in American Contract Bridge League tournaments has zoomed from 5,000 to more than 75,000.

Board Delays Levy Decision

No further action was taken on a proposal that two levies be resubmitted to the Columbiana County Board of Elections at a meeting of the Southern Local Board of Education Friday night at Salineville High School.

The board considered resubmitting the levies under a new state law which would have permitted them to have been voted in for 10 years. The levies were submitted once and placed on the ballot for five years. It was learned the changes in the ballot would have to be paid for by the board.

The levies are for 3 mills and 2 mills.

A list of substitute cooks for school cafeterias was approved. The women will be called when the regular workers are off and will be paid the standard rate of the district, which is based on the number of students fed, plus a 10-cent mileage rate.

The substitutes are Mrs. Irene Dunlap, Mrs. Mable Polen, Mrs. Agnes Goddard, Mrs. Faye Boyd, Mrs. Margaret Ewing, Mrs. Mildred Chenault, Mrs. Ethel Hogue and Mrs. Doris Adams.

The board agreed to continue the policy of paying the regular tuition fee to the Retarded Children's Council for children from the district who are taught by the group.

A new water well pump was purchased for the Highlandtown School.

Democrats Keep 'Hands Off' For Ohio Favorite Son

Don Gosney, Columbiana County Democrat chairman, said today a "hands-off" policy is being maintained in selection of a favorite son candidate for the national party convention.

The remark was prompted by announcement of a poll being made on the question of a native son by the Columbus Dispatch newspaper at Columbus.

Democratic chairmen of 41 of the 88 counties in the state were checked. Results indicated State Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman could run into trouble in his move to have all chairmen commit themselves to Gov. Michael V. DiSalle as the favorite son candidate next year.

Gosney said county party members have not selected "DiSalle or any other candidate." "We are awaiting word on what Gov. DiSalle plans to do," he said. Some announcement may be made later, Gosney said.

The survey showed 32 of the 41 chairmen representing all sections of the state favored the party's 66-men delegation being led to the convention by a favorite son candidate.

Nine of the 41 said they do not favor a favorite son in charge of the delegation. Twenty - eight of the 32 who believe there should be a favorite son, pick DiSalle. One said U. S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche should be in charge and another picked Sen. Stuart Symington D-Mo.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Tuesday	Habakkuk	3	18-19

Through All Of Life...

Perhaps you see no significance to the hourglass superimposed on the Bible. But to the believer, it means that all of life is sustained by God's promises. Every day, every hour, He gives strength and help to His followers. The light of His Word shines steadily through the passing of time. The more you read, the deeper will be your understanding, the greater will be your joy. By entering wholeheartedly into the work of the Church, by giving it your support, you increase the value of your own life, and help others to see the light shining through each day's experience.

Throughout life's entire span, the Church will help us, the Bible will speak to us of God. Does the picture mean that to you? It will, if you look at it through believing eyes.

3,700 Attend 5th Annual Grid Preview Of Nonpareil Club

Midland Opens Season By Trimming Beaver Falls, 18-13

Potters Score 4 TD's In Win Over Leetonia

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

A cool night and the excitement offered by a top-notch football preview drew an estimated 3,700 fans to Patterson Field Friday night for the Blue and White Nonpareil Club's annual attraction.

Though total attendance was shy of last year's record of 5,000, the preview proved to be one of the best in five years as eight area teams participated in a fast-moving preliminary to the 1959 regular season.

Two high-scoring games were included in the nearly four hours long extravaganza.

The winners of the abbreviated contests were East Liverpool's Potters, Wellsville, Toronto and Salem.

The Potters scored a smashing triumph in their outing against Leetonia and made four trips to the end zone in providing a flashy finale for the preview.

Wellsville's Tigers edged Columbiana, 6-0, in the opener, Toronto bounced Beaver Local, 20-8, in the second game, Salem slipped by rival Lisbon, 8-6, and the Potters capped the night with a 32-14 victory over Leetonia.

Ed Hester and Dick Forzano, co-chairmen of the preview, said the Nonpareil Club received its best gate receipts ever and added that the sports picture in East Liverpool will benefit considerably in 1959 through use of the game funds.

East Liverpool

Coach Lou Venditti's Potters exercised their potent air attack and backfield speed to easily dispose of Leetonia's Bears.

Two Potter All-Ohio candidates—quarterback Bob Mackall and halfback Dave Zelch—spearheaad the offensive maneuvers and threatened to break away for the entire distance with each carry.

Zelch electrified the crowd on East Liverpool's first series of plays by sprinting 70 yards for a touchdown on an end sweep.

Near the end of the first of two 12-minute quarters, junior halfback John Goodballet armed the Potters with a two touchdown edge by crashing into the end zone from about a yard out.

Then the Potters opened up their air attack and scored again when junior Ken Cunningham rifled a perfect pass to Mackall in a 50 yard operation.

Coach Pat Mancusco's Bears—fairly strong but lacking finess on handoffs — broke into the scoring column moments later on a 36-yard touchdown run by halfback Dave Pirigyi. Leetonia later scored again by moving 70 yards in 11 plays against primarily a second string Potter defensive unit. Dave Little got the touchdown on a short crash.

Mackall figured in the final Potter touchdown by hurling an 18-yard pass to junior end Tim Archer. East Liverpool's extra point attempts—all tried by running—were successful. Mackall and Zelch each got credit for two.

Fumbles played a major part in Leetonia's defeat although the Potters packed too much speed and wallop for the single-A Bears to make the game close in score.

Wellsville

Wellsville High's Tigers shut out Columbiana, 6-0, by virtue of an early touchdown by halfback Dick Brown.

Coach George Fisher's Columbiana eleven appeared to be playing on a treadmill as fumbles interrupted important touchdown drives several times. The Clippers failed to muster any serious scoring threat and crossed into Wellsville territory only one time during the contest.

Halfback Jim Stevens carried the brunt of the attack of Wellsville and set up Brown's short touchdown run by returning a Columbiana punt for 42 yards.

Coach Ken Woods' Tigers moved the ball well on occasion although erratic timing and fumbles slowed offensive thrusts.

Wellsville's most effective maneuver was an option play engineered by quarterback Bob Kiggans, a 6-foot, 2-inch junior. Bob Brown, a senior end, turned in a good performance for the Tigers as did Stevens.

Rugged Bob Delposen, Wellsville's hope for a fullback running threat this year, missed the action with a dislocated shoulder. Stevens took over Delposen's fullback slot for the preview, and Pat Creaturo and Dick Brown manned the halfback positions.

Columbiana's line, although outweighed by plenty of poundage, provided sufficient scrap to make the game a close one. Ralph (Jiggers) Wagner, 240-pound guard, headed the Wellsville forward wall.

Salem

Salem's narrow, 8-6, victory over rival Lisbon was almost worth the price of admission in itself.

Veteran Coach Bud Bucher's Lisbon squad turned in an rousing performance against the heavier Quakers and the final score favoring Salem is no indication of a one-sided ball game.

Lisbon punched across its touchdown first, moving 71 yards in 11 plays including 15 yards by way of an unnecessary roughness penalty against Salem's Metcalf.

Halfback Tom Brooks, whom Bucher calls his fastest runner in his 14 years with Lisbon, scored the touchdown on a seven-yard sweep around right end behind crisp blocking.

A rush by Bowling for the extra points was halted by Salem's huge line headed by Ned Chappell, Petrucci, and Horning.

The Quakers, ranked 13th in Ohio last year and expecting a good season in 1959, bounced back to tie on Pete Schmauch's short buck. Salem moved 74 yards in seven plays during the drive, with a 27 yard run by Fred Phillis being the primary factor. Phillis, a returnee from last year's club, added the extra points on a rush to provide Salem with the victory.

As expected, the entire game was hard-fought to the very end. Coach Earl Bruce's Quakers thus got revenge for last year's 6-0 preview defeat to Lisbon.

Toronto

Using a tricky, long-count while awaiting the snap of the ball, Toronto High's Red Knights confused Beaver Local long enough to roar away to a three touchdown lead and triumph, 20-8.

However, had the game been of regulation length, the final score might have been a little closer.

Coach Jack O'Rourke's Beavers played dead for nearly two periods before becoming aroused and scoring late in the game.

With Toronto in front, 20-0, the Beavers began rolling and moved 40 yards in five plays to score. The touchdown was a 10-yard end sweep by quarterback Bill Dunn who surprised the Toronto defense with his speed.

Halfback Carl Hoppel rushed for the conversion.

Toronto, on the road to recovery after a disasterous season in 1958, flashed perhaps the most well-balanced running attack of any team appearing in the preview.

Fleet Bobby Edwards, a long-distance threat, scored the Knight's first touchdown on a short end run. Bobby Montgomery, 170-pound fullback, added another on a six yard end sweep.

A surprising newcomer to the varsity—halfback Frank Spreainde—got Toronto's third touchdown and extra points. Spreainde smacked over left end for five yards for the touchdown and also hit into the line for the PAT.

While Toronto's running game was flashy, the air attack of the Knights did not fare as well. Fullback George Fisher did not score for Toronto but played a major role in the victory, breaking away for long runs on several occasions.

Dunn and Bontempt played outstanding defensive games for the Beavers.

Browns To Cut 4 More After Sunday's Game

CLEVELAND (AP)—Four players will be wearing a Cleveland Browns uniform for the last time Sunday in an exhibition game with the Detroit Lions in Detroit.

Of the 60 players who bid for a place on the Cleveland roster this year, only 42 are left. By Tuesday night, the number must be pared to 38. Another cut, to 35, will be made a week later.

Since joining the National Football League in 1950, the Browns never have defeated Detroit in Briggs Stadium.

The exhibition is the next to the last before the regular season.

Passing and pass defense will be watched closely by coach Paul Brown. The pass defense was riddled for 400 yards by the passing of quarterback Billy Wade of the Los Angeles Rams last week.

East Palestine 16-0 Winner

YOUNGSTOWN — Halfback George Morris scored one touchdown and set up another on a long run to lead East Palestine High School to a 16-0 victory over Boardman in the Steel Valley football preview here Friday night.

Morris, one of Columbiana County's fastest halfbacks, scored his touchdown on a 10-yard run. Jim Wisser ran for the extra points.

A 30-yard return of a kickoff by Morris set up Palestine's second touchdown by Wisser. Willis Woods passed to Jim Massey for the extra points.

Coach Howard Weyers' Bulldogs held Boardman to two first downs and a total of 42 yards rushing. East Palestine finished with seven first downs and 152 yards by way of rushing.

The Bulldogs open regular season action Friday night at home against Beaver—a new opponent for 1959.

RISES TO OCCASION. Midland High School's Ken Russell, 160-pound senior quarterback, is pictured leaping over several blockers in a run from scrimmage against Beaver Falls Friday night. The exhibition game drew 4,000 to the Lincoln High School stadium as the two squads opened season play. Midland triumped, 18-13.

Movie Smith Scores Once For Leopards

An estimated 4,000 fans jammed Lincoln High School stadium in Midland Friday night and watched the Leopards whip rival Beaver Falls, 18-13, in an exhibition game which opened the season for both teams.

Midland — reigning champion of the Beaver County Class A ranks —received a stiff battle from their Class AA opponents but appeared to have too much of an edge in the way of overall experience and heft.

The game marked the debut of Coach Larry Bruno of Beaver Falls. He succeeded Bill Ross this year after a successful 10-year tenure at Monaca.

Big Movie Smith, 200-pound plus converted tackle, scored one Midland touchdown from his fullback slot on an eight-yard run in the first quarter. Smith played an outstanding game, seeing action with both units.

Quarterback Ken Russell, 160-pound senior, skirted end for 21 yards for Midland's second touchdown, and the third came on a short run of about three yards by halfback Martin Schulte.

Two attempted placements by Bill White, 145-pound extra point specialist for Midland, were low.

Fullback Jim Kofalt, 190-pound senior letterman, scored for Beaver Falls in the fourth quarter on a short crash. The Tigers' first score was by halfback Ryan who galloped into the end zone after taking a flat pass. The play covered about 30 yards.

Coach John Petchel's strong Leopards had an edge of 9 to 5 in first downs. The Leopards tried a dozen passes and completed three. Beaver Falls, trying desperately to connect for a touchdown through the air in the final quarter, threw 20 passes and completed four.

Midland entertains Pittsburgh Allderdice next Friday night.

White Sox Drop 2; Indians Also Lose

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago's pennant - pressing White Sox, toughest club to shut out in the American League, suddenly have been shackled with a string of 28 scoreless innings, their magic singles disenchanted by a couple of kid right-handers.

Baltimore's Jack Fisher and Jerry Walker, both just 20, spun a 25-inning shut out over the Sox for a twi-night doubleheader sweep Friday night. Walker put them away on six hits in a 16-inning, 1-0 decision after Fisher had claimed his first major league victory with a three-hit, 3-0 success.

The White Sox, dropping three in a row for the first time in three months and handed a double shutout for the first time in six years, now lead second-place Cleveland by four games. Washington cuffed the Indians for their second straight loss 5-4.

Oddly, the Indians, who were unable to gain an inch on the White Sox while winning 15 of 20, now have picked up half a game while losing two in a row.

New York took a 1½-game hold on third place over Detroit by belting the Tigers 9-3. And Kansas City junked its losing streak at 13 by beating Boston 8-6.

In the National League, San Francisco's edge was whittled to a half-game as second-place Los Angeles swept two from Pittsburgh while the Giants lost 1-0 to Philadelphia and Robin Roberts. The Dodgers did it 5-4 and 4-0, ending reliever Elroy Face's unbeaten streak at 22 games in the opener. Milwaukee, 1½ games behind, stretched its streak to six by whipping Cincinnati 10-2.

The Chicago Cubs beat St. Louis 2-1.

Fisher (1-4) retired the first 19 men in order and faced only 28 men, one over the minimum, while striking out three and walking just one in his first complete game and fifth start. He hasn't allowed an unearned run in his last 22 innings.

Nellie Fox singled with one out in the seventh for Chicago's first hit, then was wiped out in a doubleplay. Sherm Lollar got Fisher's walk in the eighth, but a doubleplay put him out of the way. In the ninth, Al Smith singled for the Sox, but was out when struck by a ball hit by pinch hitter Earl Torgeson, who was credited with an automatic single.

Baltimore backed Fisher with 10 hits, including homers by Bob Nieman and Willie Tasby, against southpaw Billy Pierce (13-14).

The Orioles, 11-10 over the White Sox going into today's finale of the season series which also includes an 18-inning 1-1 tie, made it four straight over Chicago by beating reliever Gerry Staley (8-4) in the nightcap.

The Senators joined the Orioles as spoilers on Julio Becuqer's pinch single in the eighth, breaking a 4-all tie. It came on reliever Jack Harshman's first pitch, after losing reliever Mike Garcia (3-6) had put the winning run on base with a walk.

Irons Notch Preview Win

STEUBENVILLE — Stanton Local High School of Irondale scored in the waning minutes to edge Yorkville, 8-0, in the Lions Club's annual football preview for Jefferson County schools here Friday night.

A 41-yard run by Jim Sanders with 4:48 left in the 15-minute long game provided Irondale with the preview victory.

Coach Fred Sims' Irons scored the two points following the touchdown when quarterback Bill Chetock passed to Frank Pisarsky, an end. Yorkville was threatening to score when the game ended with the ball on the Irondale 10.

About 8,000 fans witnessed the preview. Steubenville Big Red defeated Wintersville, 20-0, in its contest.

Semi-Finals Set In Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—"I hate playing on grass," Bernard (Tut) Bartzen insisted today.

Strange words, indeed, from a fellow who has battered his way to a semifinal berth in the national lawn tennis championships.

Bartzen, 32 and unseeded, went up against Australian ace Neale Fraser in one of the semifinals today. In the other, top-seeded Alex Olmedo of Los Angles played unranked Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn.

Bartzen accomplished the trick of the tournament Friday when he polished off third-seeded Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 in the quarter-finals. Fraser whipped past Luis Ayala of Chile, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Olmedo downed Roy Emerson of Australia 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, and Holmberg ousted fourth-seeded Rod Laver of Australia 6-8, 7-5, 6-0, 6-3.

In the women's division, top-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil tackled Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., No. 4, and third-seeded Christine Truman of Britain met sixth-ranked Ann Haydon, also of Britain, in the semifinals.

Braves Win, Giants Lose

Bucs' Face Drops First As Dodgers Sweep Pair

By The Associated Press

It appears the question no longer is whether Los Angeles' darlin' Dodgers, dynamiting Elroy Face's magnificent winning streak, or Milwaukee's barreling Braves can overhaul San Francisco's National League lead.

Now it looks to be more a question of who will do it first.

While last-place Philadelphia tumbled San Francisco 1-0 Friday night on Robin Roberts' three-hitter, the Dodgers closed within a half-game and four percentage points of the Giants with a 5-4, 4-0 twi-night doubleheader sweep over Pittsburgh. And the Braves edged within a game of the top with their sixth straight success, a 10-2 romp over Cincinnati.

The Dodgers, whipped along by Wally Moon's three home runs, ran their streak to five games, ending Face's two-year winning string at 22 games with a two-run ninth inning in the opener.

Chicago's Cubs beat St. Louis 2-1 on a wild pitch in the ninth in the other NL game.

Face, who set a record for relief pitchers while winning 17 in a row this season, finally was beaten when he gave up a single by Maury Wills, who scored the tying run on Junior Gilliam's triple, and then was tagged for a winning single by Charlie Neal.

It was Face's 99th appearance since his last defeat—delivered by Milwaukee on Memorial Day last season. In that time, he put away 24 saves, three against the Dodgers, a club he beat five times in the streak which fell two short of matching Carl Hubbell's major league record of 24 consecutive victories for the Giants in 1936-37.

Face's string also was two shy of the major league record for consecutive victories from the start of a season, set at 19 by another Giant, Rube Marquard, in 1912.

The Phils handed the Giants their second loss in a row with their first run in three games. Shut out on two hits by Mike McCormick (11-14), a lefty who had beaten them five times this season, they finally broke through in the seventh on a single by Joe Koppe, a sacrifice and a single by Harry Anderson.

Willie Mays doubled for the Giants in the fourth and Hobie Landrith singled in the fifth and eighth for the other hits off Roberts (14-15), who ended rookie Willie McCovey's hitting streak at 22 games. It was Roberts whom McCovey tagged in his 4-for-4 debut on July 30.

Chester Squeezes Past South Side, 14-12, For 2nd Victory

Newell Eleven Loses At Cameron, 7-0, In Season Opener

Panther TD's Ran By Sayre And Mayhew

Chester High's Panthers—weakened by a wave of illness this week — slipped by surprisingly tough South Side, 14-12, in their home opener before some 1,500 fans Friday night at Chester City Park.

Two successful extra point attempts proved the margin of victory as the aroused Pennsylvanians capitalized on two fumbles to match the Panthers' touchdowns.

The victory was the second straight for Coach Dom Amedeo's eleven and third in succession over South Side.

Primed for an upset, South Side drove for a first period touchdown following recovery of a Chester fumble and added another in the final period. However, two extra point attempts by placement both failed and Chester's strong line held the Rams at bay to escape narrowly.

In a repeat from their roles in last week's victory over New Cumberland, halfback Billy Mayhew and fullback Ken Sayre led the Chester touchdown assault.

After South Side had scored in the first quarter on a nine-yard pass from Frasier to Baker, Mayhew broke loose on a punt return for 25 yards to set up a touchdown operation. The fast halfback drove over from 11 yards out and plunged for an extra point to put Chester ahead, 7-6.

The Panthers drove 71 yards for a second quarter touchdown which came on Sayre's 11-yard ramble up the middle. He added the point by a rush and Chester was armed with a 14-6 halftime margin.

Rich Ashcroft put South Side to within striking distance in the final quarter when he scored on a three-yard plunge over right tackle.

Neither team scored in the third quarter, although South Side drove to the Panther 12 before being halted on downs.

Ends Parsons and Baker turned in outstanding performances for South Side as did Brookes, a returning letterman fullback.

Leading the Chester defense were linemen Johnny Steele, Larry McSwegin, Steve Chapko — a hard-hitting trio of letterwinners—and Don Reese, a junior guard.

Chester meets Beaver Local Friday night at home in search of victory No. 3. South Side plays its second regular season game at Avella, Pa. Friday night.

Chisox Fears Of Last Stand In Baltimore Well Grounded

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Chicago White Sox were leery about their last stand in Baltimore with the American League pennant in their reach. Their fears were well grounded.

A couple of 20-year-old Oriole pitchers, Jack Fisher and Jerry Walker, didn't allow them a run in 25 innings Friday night.

They got only three singles off Fisher in the 3-0 opener, and it wasn't until the seventh inning that they even put a runner on base. Fisher pitched to only 28 of them in his first major league victory.

Walker went all the way in the marathon nightcap of 16 innings before Brooks Robinson drove in the only run.

Six singles were all the Sox could muster off Walker and they didn't have a runner on third after the first inning. The first double shutout of a White Sox team in six years reduced their lead to four games over Cleveland which obliged by losing to Washington.

Second baseman Nellie Fox had said beforehand that if the Sox could get by their last three games in Baltimore, the pennant would be in the bag.

All they can hope now is to salvage the final one this afternoon.

Sweet Tooth At 102

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Rushman has a sweet tooth. She celebrated her 102nd birthday Friday by eating chocolates.

Fumble Sets Up Score In Third Period

A recovered fumble that led to a Cameron touchdown proved to be the deciding play of the game as Wells High's Vikings from Newell lost a heartbreaking opener, 7-0, at Cameron Friday night.

Coach Pete Horoszko's Vikings, out to gain revenge after a lean season iin 1958, saw victory escape from their grasp when Cameron pounched on a fumble and punched across a third quarter touchdown.

The scoring play was a two-yard sneak by quarterback Melvin Scott. Newell had fumbled on its own 12 and Cameron recovered and scored two plays later.

The Vikings threatened twice in the game and penetrated to inside Cameron's 20-yard line but ran out of steam on both occasions.

A combination of penalties and fumbles spelled defeat for Newell. A five-yard penalty for offsides halted one touchdown march, and failure to gain enough yardage on fourth down stopped another.

Mickey Staley started Newell on its way to one touchdown threat when he fired a 40-yard pass to end Pearly Adkins. Fullback Dennis Lee sparked the Newell offense.

Whipkey, a 180-pound fullback, gained 124 yards in 20 tries for Cameron — defeated last week by Hundred, 14-13.

Newell goes in search of its first victory this week at home against New Cumberland.

Doctor Should Be At Sports Events, Ohio Group Says

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio chapter of the American College of Surgeons says a doctor of medicine should be on duty at every high school athletic event in case of injuries to players.

Members of a panel on athletic injuries, at the chapter's meeting Friday, protested that in many places in Ohio, osteopaths, chiropractors and chiropodists had "taken leadership" in the "province of the medical doctors." In other places, they added, there was no one but the coach or the trainer to take charge when a student was injured.

Dr. Nicholas J. Giannestras of Cincinnati said a committee of the Ohio State Medical Assn. is trying to change this situation.

The panel was unanimous in turning thumbs down on the use of painkillers to enable injured athletes to play in school games.

Bears And Steelers Win In Pro Grid Exhibitions

By The Associated Press

No social graces for those big bad Bears from Chicago. Make a tactical faux pas against those bruisers and they'll run you down.

That's the way the undefeated Bears played it Friday night as they whipped the defense-minded New York Giants 18-6 for their fifth National Football League exhibition victory.

The Bears, who had scored 106 points in their last two games, and the Giants, who had held the opposition scoreless in a pair of exhibitions, were tied 6-6 in the third quarter.

The Giants had the ball, fourth down and one to go, on their own 34. They gambled. The Bears stopped Phil King short, and took over.

Then the Bears marched to two first downs and went ahead to stay on a 10-yard scoring pass from Zeke Bratkowsi to Jim Dooley.

In the only other game, Bobby Layne threw two touchdown passes as the Pittsburgh Steelers defeated Chicago's Cardinals 21-13.

Tonight's exhibition program is headlined by the nationally televised (ABC-TV, 10 p. m., EDT) between Washington (1-3) and Green Bay (2-2) at Winston-Salem, N.C. San Francisco (2-2) is at Los Angeles (1-2-1).

Sunday, the NFL champion Baltimore Colts (4-0) tackle the Eagles (1-3) at Philadelphia and Cleveland (1-3) plays at Detroit (2-2-1).

Phils' Roberts Tightens Senior Circuit Scramble

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Robin Roberts, in the twilight of a great career, tightened the National League race Friday night by pitching last place Philadelphia to a 1-0 victory over the leading San Francisco Giants.

Roberts, who finished six seasons with 20 or more triumphs, called the three-hitter his best game ever. "It's as good as I can do," he remarked after running his 1959 record to 14-15.

Not only did the right-hander trim the Giants' lead to a scant half game, but he got revenge by snapping rookie Willie McCovey's hitting streak. McCovey, who broke into the league July 30 by hitting two triples and two singles against Roberts, had connected in 22 consecutive games before facing Roberts this time.

Now McCovey is trying to start a new string. Roberts struck him out, got him to pop to the catcher and ground out to first. It was only the fourth time in 38 games that he failed to hit.

The loss left the Giants half a game up on Los Angeles and a game ahead of Milwaukee.

Hurt In Explosion

BAYONNE, N. J. (AP)—Chief Petty Officer Metrol Skwarla of Mansfield, Ohio, suffered head injuries and a broken nose here Friday when an air conditioning unit aboard barracks ship APL 42 exploded.

Composer Claimed

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Ernie Burnett, 75, composer of "Melancholy Baby," died Friday after a long illness. Burnett, a native of Cincinnati, was a pianist who wrote many well-known songs, including "Please Take a Letter, Miss Brown."

Ortega Loses To Fernandez

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Undefeated Florentino Fernandez will have to beat Gaspar Ortega if he wants a shot at welterweight champion Don Jordan.

Fernandez, who scored his 21st victory with a unanimous decision over Ortega Friday night, floored the wily Mexican from Mexicali in the first and fourth rounds but could not knock him out.

Teddy Brenner, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, watched the nationally televised fight from ringside and said he would rematch Fernandez and Ortega in the Garden on Oct. 23.

If Fernandez wins that one, Brenner said, he wants the Cuban to fight Jordan for the title at Miami Beach on Dec. 4.

Ortega's manager wouldn't argue that Fernandez won, but he said he thought the fight was much closer than the judges scored it.

Under Florida's 10-point-must system, Referee Cy Gottfried scored it 97-90 for Fernandez, Judge Gus Jacobson saw it 97-91 and Judge Fred Aaronson called it 96-93 for Fernandez.

The Detroit Lions have 14 former Big Ten football players on their roster.

Khrushchev May Learn Some Surprising Things

(What does Nikita Khrushchev expect the United States to look like? William L. Ryan, in this last of a series, tells how the Soviet leader regards Americans.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev, in his own words, intends to give the United States a bit of "good old Russian hell."

The prospective guest of the American public appears to have a low opinion of the United States —or at least that portion of it he calls the ruling circles.

The ruling circles include anybody who owns property, anybody who is in a directing position in labor unions, the entire military, the entire government and the entire middle class from lower to upper.

There is little chance Khrushchev's visit will do much to change his mind. It may, however, have some effect on the timetable the world Communist leader has worked out. The premier of the Soviet Union and first secretary of the Soviet Communist party may learn some surprising things.

Khrushchev has staked his niche in Soviet history upon a challenging declaration of economic war against the United States. In a broadcast just over a year ago, Khrushchev said a shooting war is not necessary for a world victory by communism.

"We have other means to fight the class enemy, my dears," he said to Americans in general. "And in this, victory for us is assured. We will raise our economy, raise labor productivity, produce more per human being, so that soon, gentlemen, you understand, the time will come, you Americans, when we shall, as the saying goes, give you good old Russian hell."

Khrushchev's plan to give us all hell involves overtaking and surpassing the United States in all phases of economic development, including the consumer side.

Next week he will have a chance to note the size of the chew he has bitten off.

Since Khrushchev got his invitation, the Soviet press has been oozing good will toward the United States, though carefully larding this with frequent attacks on those shadowy, frightening "ruling circles."

To Khrushchev, all American politicians are alike. The American worker, choosing between parties, merely chooses between exploiters.

Factory managers in the Soviet Union have no strike problem. Strikes are forbidden. The state operates labor unions. But Khrushchev professes to believe labor unions in America are all "tools of monopoly capital." If Americans strike, it is a phenomenon which could not be controlled by union bosses. To him, this indicates decay of the whole American system.

Khrushchev is enraged by suggestions that the Soviet government cares little about the consumer, aims only at industrial power and war might.

"The American politicians often shed crocodile tears about the Soviet government allegedly giving little attention to developing those branches of industry which directly meet the people's needs," shouted Khrushchev in Czechoslovakia last year. (Aware of possible envy in the U.S.S.R., he does not make such statements for home consumption.)

"So," he continued, "we decided to make a practical test of their attitude and let them show whether the American imperialists really care for the peoples of the Soviet Union, that they should consume more, or whether they care for having the economic potential undermined and making it incapable of defense, and thus have the opportunity to carry on their cold war policy and dictate conditions from a position of strength."

Khrushchev has been least violent in his treatment of President Eisenhower, among all American leaders. Yet he has accused the President of being directly responsible for a "brink of war" policy. Stung by Eisenhower's proclamation of Captive Nations Week, in sympathy for communized Eastern Europe, Khrushchev accused him of crude interference with the intention of increasing world tensions, inciting passions and provoking an arms race. The President's suggestion that there might be a clean hydrogen bomb, free from fallout, Khrushchev has scoffingly labelled "stupid."

But Khrushchev's pet targets are American military men. He has suggested some of them should be committed to lunatic asylums.

Khrushchev's best propagandists are now suggesting that the United States government had no choice but to invite a great peace champion to its shores, because that was the "will of the people."

Court Revenue Cut Tied To Steel Walkout

A sharp drop in Municipal Court revenue in August can be attributed mainly to the nationwide steel strike, which left many East Liverpool district residents short of cash, Clerk Harold L. Powell said today.

The court's overall income last month was $4,661, down $833 from the $5,494 shown in July, the month in which the strike began. The court turned over $4,140 last month to the city treasury, a decline of $680 from the $4,820 the municipality received in July.

The percentage of decline was heaviest in the court's receipts from civil actions, which generally are filed to collect small debts. Civil costs last month produced $254, a drop of $308 from the $562 shown in July. The number of civil cases is off because many plaintiffs seek to collect judgments by attaching the wages of the defendants.

In addition to civil costs, last month's income included $3,886 in fines, costs and forfeitures from criminal actions. In addition to the amount paid the city, the court turned over $198 to the state as its share of fines resulting from Highway Patrol cases, another $25 from fines resulting from liquor law violations, $223 to the county treasury—also from state cases—and $75 to the Law Library Association.

The total amount handled by the court last month fell to $5,588, off $6,109 from the $11,697 shown in July. The civil branch handled $1,595 and the criminal branch received and disbursed $5,588.

The figure includes funds received from trusteeships, judgments and garnishee fees and turned over to plaintiffs and creditors in civil actions and refunded bonds in criminal cases.

A breakdown of cases showed: 35 civil cases filed, 15 disposed of and 188 left pending; 113 city criminal cases filed, 110 disposed of and 23 pending, and 61 state criminal cases filed, 54 disposed of and 86 pending.

Mother And Six Children Killed As Train Hits Car

WASECA, Minn. (AP) — "I've worked hard. I had a lovely wife, wonderful children. Now everything is gone. Everything. It's an empty feeling."

James Zimmerman sadly shook his bowed head in voicing his heartbreak over the train - car crash that snuffed out the lives of his wife and six children. A Minneapolis & St. Louis freight train smashed into their station wagon Friday at a crossing just half a block from the Sacred Heart Catholic School, where four of the children attended classes.

Killed at the scene were Michael 10; Connie, 8; Barbara, 7; James Jr, 5, and Janice, 2. Kathryn, 13, died shortly afterward, and Mrs. Zimmerman, 39, three hours later at a Waseca hospital.

All but James and Janice were enrolled at the school—they had just gone along for the ride from the Zimmerman farm, 4½ miles east of here.

A coroner's jury viewed the bodies Friday night, then recessed until next week, after the funeral, for its verdict.

Attacker Of Woman Sentenced To Life

YADKINVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Lee France, a 22-year-old Negro charged with raping the young wife of a white neighbor, was sentenced to life imprisonment Friday.

France was being tried on the capital charges of first degree burglary and rape when he entered a guilty plea to the burglary count. The state accepted the plea and dropped the rape charge.

Had the case gone to the jury, a guilty verdict on either charge could have resulted in a death sentence.

Mrs. Leonard Matthews, 18, testified that France entered her home the night of July 6 while she was alone and assaulted her in her bed. She admitted that after the attack, she made some coffee for France and that the Negro stayed in the house for about two hours.

Controversial Russian Poet Makes Surprise Appearance

MOSCOW (AP) — Controversial poet Russian and novelist Boris Pasternak made a surprise public appearance Friday night, first since he was shunned by fellow Soviet authors for writing his novel "Doctor Zhivago."

He attended a concert of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, cheered its musicians, cried over the music and then emotionally embraced and kissed Conductor Leonard Bernstein.

Pasternak, whose "Doctor Zhivago" won him the 1958 Nobel Prize for Literature and caused him to be denounced as a "pig" by fellow Soviet writers, showed unannounced.

The 69-year-old author had lived in seclusion outside Moscow many months after being awarded the prize he first accepted and then rejected. His novel has been banned in the Soviet Union. It deals with the misery of a group of Russians in the last years of the czars and the first years of the Communist revolution.

Pasternak appeared in good health and told reporters he is living well and working at capacity. He said he is writing a prose play about the emancipation of serfs in the mid-19th century.

"But it will be no more happy nor pleasing for me than my novel," Pasternak said.

He said he had heard rumors of plans to publish "Doctor Zhivago" in the Soviet Union "a little while ago, but I do not believe it."

He said no more about the novel or his present work. He was too concerned about the music he had just heard.

PITTSBURGH — Business as usual will be conducted Sunday in 41 area retail stores whose owners won a temporary restraining order in Federal Court here Friday forbidding the enforcement of the new Sunday Blue Law.

Vandals Enter Church, Stone School Panes

Vandals ransacked a downtown church building Thursday night or early Friday and smashed seven window panes in the Klondyke School by hurling stones, police reported. Two other theft and burglary reports were filed overnight.

The First Church of the Nazarene at St. Clair Ave. and Minerva St. was entered sometime between 4 p. m. Thursday and 8 a. m. yesterday by intruders who broke a 12-x-14-inch pane of cathedral glass on the north side of the building, officers said. After breaking the glass, the intruders reached through the opening to manipulate the catch, officers said.

Four classrooms in the building were ransacked, but apparently nothing was taken.

The damage to the glass at the Klondyke School occured between 4:30 p. m. Thursday and 7 a. m. yesterday. The damage was discovered by a custodian when he reported for work. Stones broke four panes 8-x-12 inches, two 32-x-40 inches and one 30-x-18 inches, officers said.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Arthur Geer, 322 W. 3rd St., told police an undetermined amount of cash was taken from her home by a burglar who entered between 1:30 and 10:30 p. m. Thursday. Entrance was made by removing a screen from a cellar window. A window glass in a sunporch window also was removed, apparently as a means of exit, police said.

Two recapped 670-x-15 tires were stolen sometime Tuesday from the Paramont Service Station.

DiSalle Says Ohio May Have No New Taxes For Decade

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Ohio may not have any new taxes for up to 10 years, says Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

He told the Ohio Trade Assn. Executives here Friday that Ohio is on a solid financial footing, comparing favorably in all respects with states of similar size.

DiSalle pushed a tax increase program of more than 300 million dollars through this year's Legislature. But he said that continued prosperity and the natural growth of Ohio's economy should produce the money to cover additional costs which the growth will make essential.

The last 11 years, the governor asserted, "were fine years for almost everyone except the state government."

He said no planning was done during the groth and then crash programs had to be initiated. The new Department of Economic and Industrial Development is attempting to complete future plans, he added.

Ohio may become the No. 1 industrial state in the nation with one million new jobs by 1970, he commented.

But, he added, during that time, education costs probably will jump to one billion dollars for a two-year period from the present 530 million.

The governor cited an unusual population growth pattern in Ohio. He said that during the past 11 years, while Ohio's population increased by 1,627,000, the productive age bracket—18 to 45—decreased by 50,000 because of the low birth rate in the depression years of the 1930s.

Francis Scott Key wrote the words to "The Star-Spangled Banner" 145 years ago today, and the music has been the subject of controversy ever since Francis Scott Key wrote only the anthem's words.

SHOULD WE CHANGE OUR NATIONAL ANTHEM?

by Alfred Balk

FORMER PRESIDENT Harry S. Truman often makes news with his outspoken comments. During a televised conversation last year, for example, Mr. Truman was asked his opinion of "The Missouri Waltz," a song which virtually has become his theme.

Mr. Truman snapped, "It's as bad as 'the Star-Spangled Banner' as far as music is concerned!"

Mr. Truman, who takes his patriotism seriously, obviously meant no disrespect to the anthem as a symbol. He was speaking only of its musical qualities—and in this, despite the reverence Americans feel for their national anthem, many who have struggled to sing it must agree. As it now stands, it is hard to cope with vocally.

For several years, musicians and singers have realized this and suggested some challenging, even controversial, improvements.

For example, Deems Taylor, noted music historian and commentator, says, "The fundamental qualification for a good national anthem is that it can be sung by everybody. 'The Star-Spangled Banner' cannot be sung by everybody!"

Or take the view of Lucy Monroe, who has led the anthem publicly some 6,000 times and is probably more familiar with it than any other singer. "The people want to sing 'our song' well," says Miss Monroe, "but rather than try to make the high notes, some of them don't sing at all. This is a sad situation." Yet here is a song that should belong to all Americans, one which should inspire patriotism as we sing it with our countrymen. But are we able to sing it?

Congress, considered this problem last year in House subcommittee hearings on whether a "standard version" of "The Star-Spangled Banner" should be adopted. (We don't have an official score and verse now).

But the hearings were inconclusive. Many expressed concern about the quality of our anthem, but there was equal concern that any hasty alterations would be regretted later.

As most schoolboys know, Francis Scott Key wrote the words during the War of 1812—in fact, he wrote them 145 years ago today, on Sept. 13, 1814. A Washington attorney and amateur versifier, he was so moved while watching the British bombardment of Fort McHenry that at dawn, when the American flag still flew defiantly, he began penning his immortal stanzas.

Key did not write the music. In fact, he apparently didn't realize his poem would ever be sung. But the words fit an old air, "To Anacreon in Heaven." There were many versions of the tune then, including a drinking song, and a Baltimore music store published "The Star-Spangled Banner" to this music in 1814.

The song, though popular in Baltimore, did not appear in school song books until 1850. Soldiers picked it up during the wars of the 19th century, and by World War I it had become a favorite.

The war made us conscious that we lacked a national anthem, so a bill was introduced to make the song our official hymn. But petitions also poured in on behalf of "America the Beautiful," "Hail Columbia," and even "Yankee Doodle."

Six times "The Star-Spangled Banner" was nominated. Finally, on March 3, 1931, Congress declared that the "song known traditionally" as "The Star-Spangled Banner" was officially our anthem.

Why hasn't this closed the matter?

What puzzles the experts is—should we modify the anthem for "singability," or should an official version be adopted which adheres closely to what is considered the "original?" Or should we seek a new anthem?

A number of songs have been mentioned which seem to express the spirit of our nation as well as—and in some cases better than—the revered words of Key.

Irving Berlin's "God Bless America," for instance, has stirred whole audiences to tears. Congress already has voted him a gold medal for writing it. "America the Beautiful" has some of the most majestic descriptive phrases ever written about our country. Composer Morton Gould, among others, has said he believes it now is "more pertinent" than "The Star-Spangled Banner."

"The Stars and Stripes Forever," John Philip Sousa's grandiloquent march, as yet has no words which match its music in dignity and power. But it could be the basis of a tremendously moving national song. "America" has touched many persons deeply, including Deems Taylor, who considers it a candidate for a national anthem.

Many, however, find it inconceivable that anything but "The Star-Spangled Banner" could be our anthem. Bing Crosby, while conceding its "difficulties" says,"I genuinely deplore the abandonment of things traditional to our American heritage. Let's keep 'The Star-Spangled Banner.' "

A COMPROMISE may be to level off a few of the anthem's notes which we have trouble singing. Paul Taubman, a leading New York TV musical director, has endeavored to do this. At the request of the National Music Council, a Congressionally chartered organization of 45 leading musical groups, Taubman has made an arrangement of "The Star-Spangled Banner" which put its within everybody's vocal range without destroying the song's basic character.

In musical terms, Taubman has lowered each note a minor third for the phrases, "And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air," and also the final "O'er the land of the free."

"Mr. Taubman's change," says Lucy Monroe, "is the only completely satisfactory solution, and I respectfully urge that it be adopted so that all of us, young and old, in every walk of life, may stand proudly and sing every note of 'The Star-Spangled Banner.' "

From time to time, as more pressing matters are disposed of, the House subcommittee will meet again to discuss an official version. It will consider any viewpoint put forth with respect and restraint.

This includes yours, for our national anthem—above all—belongs to every American!

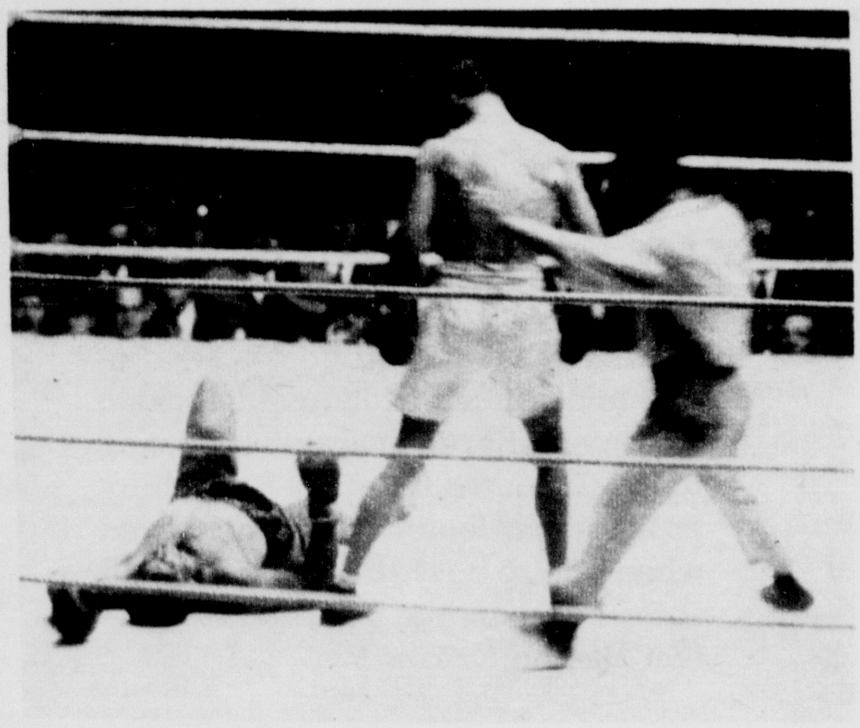
Tunney is floored! But he will get 18 seconds to recover—decisive moments for him and Dempsey.

The Best Thing That Ever Happened to Me

by Jack Dempsey

Gene Tunney sprawled on the canvas, stunned; then came the historic "long count" which cost the author the championship but won him a lifetime of fame

Jack was schooled to stand over opponent, as here with Firpo. Habit took seconds to break but cost him a title.



THE WORLD has been good to me so I'm a little surprised when some well-wisher in my Broadway restaurant reminisces and says, "You really got a tough break on that 'long count'."

What long count? What bad break?

I know what they're talking about—the best thing that ever happened to me! The best thing.

On Sept. 22, 1927—32 years ago next week, by the way—a young boxing stylist named Gene Tunney stopped me from becoming the first fighter in history to regain the heavyweight title. It was a famous fight because sports writers claimed Tunney was favored by a "long count" after I knocked him down in the seventh round.

So these well-wishers offer sympathy year after year and lament about "what might have been."

Well, I know "what might have been" and it isn't all what they see in their rose-colored mirrors reflecting the past. I didn't lose the fight because of a "freak"; Gene Tunney whipped me.

What happened was this: a new rule had been passed which stated that after a knockdown the referee would not start the count until the standing fighter was in a neutral corner. Previously we had stood over a fallen opponent waiting for him to rise so we could batter him again.

A fighter is conditioned to fight on instincts that he develops over the years. I delayed the count by standing near my opponent.

Losing the heavyweight championship of the world, especially after being champ for seven years, wasn't easy to take. But, in retrospect, I've got good reason for calling that moment the best thing that ever happened to me.

At best I didn't have long to go when I fought Tunney. I don't say this to take anything away from Gene; his record as an undefeated heavyweight champion speaks for itself. What's more, I can't honestly say I would have whipped him if we had fought when I was in my prime—it would have been a great fight, though!

This much I do know for certain: even if I had regained my title that night, some other youngster would have come along soon to lift it. After all, Gene had done it in our first bout when I was a year younger— and without benefit of a controversial "long count."

Now I'm in business where small things often make the difference between success and failure. People like to remember me as the guy who "knocked out" the champ and lost.

If I had defeated Tunney and he had then beat me in the inevitable rubber bout—a likely possibility considering my aging legs—I would have been just another champ who lost his title to a better man. There would have been no drama—and, conceivably, fewer satisfactions for me afterward. People come to see me because that "long count" made me more famous than I ever would have been if the record books simply read: Dempsey over Tunney by KO.

SOME guests ask me about the night Luis Firpo's flailing right hand catapulted me through the ropes and right out of the ring. Others ask if I really broke Jess Willard's jaw with my first punch and three of his ribs with my second. But most of them want to know about that "thing with Tunney." They want to know everything about it; whether he was really "out" or just taking advantage of the extra time, why I didn't nail him in the next round, etc. I tell them what I'm telling you. That was probably the last solid haymaker I connected with. I could feel the familiar electric jolt right up to my shoulder as my gloved fist made contact with bone. After that the cupboard was bare, and I knew it.

All of us like to be remembered, and I'm no exception. Yes, people would have remembered me even without the "long count"—but not as part of an American legend.

So that's the real story. We live a lifetime, not a single episode. It would have been great to win my title back that night.

Instead I had to learn to be a loser. It was quite a lesson, too. It taught me that defeat and disappointment can be blessings in disguise.

This Is My Dino

Dean Martin's wife begins the revealing story of their hectic marriage, Dean's ups and downs in show business, and the "other side" of the famous Jerry Lewis feud

by Jeanne Martin

IT WASN'T the hundreds of guests crowding the annual "Share" charity party for mentally retarded children that made me catch my breath as I looked up at the ceiling. It was my husband, Dean Martin, precariously balancing himself on a saddle 100 feet above the night-club dance floor, singing "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby" as he was slowly lowered to the stage.

I'd tried to talk him out of the stunt after he became nauseated from the height during rehearsals the night before, and almost fell off. He wouldn't listen. He said that it was the most effective way to start the evening's entertainment—and worth risking his neck!

That's typical of my Dino, who's been taking chances all his life. Marrying me was one of them. He knew how different we were in background, attitude, temperament. I'm happy to say it has worked out all right. On Sept. 1 we celebrated our 10th wedding anniversary.

The years have not always been easy for either of us. We were separated twice, once nearly divorced. We were confronted by lawsuits, financial difficulties that nearly ruined us and the split with Dean's partner of eight years, Jerry Lewis. I was spoiled by his generosity one day and completely ignored the next. It took me years to become adjusted to Dean's well-meant but utterly unpredictable behavior. Our wedding was a good indication of what I could expect as Dean's wife. It started as a typical Hollywood affair with hundreds of guests, invited and otherwise, reporters, photographers, gay decorations, soft music, champagne, caviar—and a groom who seemed to vanish the moment he was supposed to say "I do."

When the ceremony reached the point where the minister asked Dean for the wedding band, his hand slipped into his pocket—and came out empty. It went in and out of all the other pockets, without success. With a blank expression and a shrug of his shoulders he turned to his best man, Jerry Lewis. Jerry fumbled through his pockets and shook his head. No, he didn't have it either.

No one, including me, knew what to think when Dean's face suddenly lit up, and without warning or explanation he dashed to an adjacent room. Not till later did he explain that he'd realized the ring must have been among the items taken out of his pockets and left on the dresser when he changed into his wedding suit.

But it wasn't. It had fallen into the wastebasket, which the maid emptied into the trash container. At least that's what Dean hastily figured out as he raced to the street, turned the trash can upside down on the sidewalk and searched through the contents—till he came up with the ring.

And so we were married.

A month later I thought he'd deserted me. Dean had worked late that night on a television rehearsal. When he finished about 3 a.m., he was so tired that instead of coming home, he automatically headed for his parents' house, as he had done before we were married. When he arrived, he quietly took off his shoes, tip-toed to his old room, fell into bed and instantly went to sleep.

I worried all night. When he didn't show up by eight the next morning, I frantically called the police, hospitals and Dean's parents. His father, unaware Dean had slipped into the house, told me he hadn't seen his son in two days.

I was just packing my bags when Dean broke into the room, sorry and apologetic. At the sight of him I burst into tears of anger and relief. Then I unpacked.

I quickly learned not to let my feelings get hurt too easily. For the first few months he often called me by his first wife's name. At times he still gets confused about the children. This may not be too surprising. He has four from his previous marriage, and three by me. It took me a long time to get used to Dean's forgetfulness. During our first five years as husband and wife he forgot my birthday three times. He still doesn't recall our anniversary unless I remind him—usually by filling the house with flowers. Once he even forgot Christmas.

BUT my biggest adjustment was necessitated by his gambling habits—and by gambling I don't mean just dangling from the ceiling for a benefit show, throwing away $5,000 in Las Vegas in 12 hours or having a slot machine moved into our living room. He's taken chances on people, real estate, prize fights, income tax, everything! Usually he wins. Sometimes he loses. That doesn't discourage him.

His gambling spirit really shouldn't surprise me. After all, Dean used to be a professional. His father once told me that when he first saw his son at the hospital nursery, his little fists were clenched so tightly he could have sworn they held a pair of dice. They might as well have. Dean learned to use them before he was out of the first grade.

By the time Dean reached his teens, taking chances had become second nature to him. Once, he told me, he took a girl to a club which offered a $5 first prize for the dance contest. Dean counted on winning it to pay the check. He won. Another time he made a down-payment on a second-hand sedan, confident a job he had applied for would assure the balance. He didn't get the job and the finance company got the car.

Dean often talks about his childhood in Steubenville, Ohio, when he was Dino Crocetti and lived in a three-room house on Slack Street. There wasn't enough yard to put up swings and slides. Even if there had been, there wasn't enough money to buy them. If he wanted to play off the street, he walked across the road to the public library play ground or used the municipal pool at Beatty Park. Only once did I detect any resentment against these early days. About six years ago we ran into a girl whom Dean apparently had a big crush on as a teen-ager. "She would never go out with me," he recalled with a hint of bitterness. Seeing my curious expression, he added, "She lived on top of the hill—we lived downtown."

Despite fear of heights, Dean sang suspended above stage for charity benefit performance.

Because his father barely made enough as a barber to support his wife and two sons, Dean did his share to boost the family income—but not in the conventional manner of delivering newspapers or pushing market baskets for elderly customers. He delivered whiskey for a bootlegger!

When our children weren't around, Dean once admitted to me he never cared much for formal education. "All I was interested in," he said, "was English and arithmetic." Dean was absent from school so much, his truant officer usually walked past the ball park or the old swimming hole at Wintersville, three miles from Steubenville, to see if he was there before even checking the school.

Dean quit school in the 11th grade to go to work full-time as a gas-station attendant till his older brother Bill (now his personal manager) got him a job in a steel mill in Weirton, W. Va. Occasionally Dean still has nightmares about the mishap that made him quit: a four-ton coil of steel dropped from a crane, missing him by inches!

Knowing how gentle he can be today, it's difficult for me to visualize him running around with a group of toughs who made him so adept at fighting that he tried it professionally, under the name of "Kid Crochet." Five defeats and two broken noses later, he decided that this was another bad gamble.

Dino (Continued)

Dean still chuckles whenever he recalls how his father finally talked him into a "respectable" job, meaning, of course, the barber profession. One morning he gave Dean five dollars to enroll at the local barber college. On the way downtown to pay his tuition, Dean passed a local cigar store, then a well-known front for the biggest gambling house in Steubenville. He couldn't resist going in—and promptly lost his five dollars. Making the most of an unfortunate situation, he talked himself into a job there as a clerk selling punch-board chances.

Before long he was promoted to dealer and croupier on the gambling tables in back of the store. He did so well that he was loaned to other gambling houses as far away as Florida and worked himself up to $125 a week, a small fortune for a fellow barely out of his teens. At least, he assured me later, his shady labors had a worthy purpose: his income not only helped support his parents, but put his brother through college.

During the same years, Dean utilized his beautiful if untrained voice to sing at dances and parties whenever asked by friends. One night bandleader Sam Watkins heard him and offered him a job at $50 a week. Dean took a cut in salary to accept. It's no secret how that gamble paid off, particularly after he took another big chance by joining forces with an unknown comedian named Jerry Lewis.

It also led to discontent and quarrels and me.

I was an art major at the University of Miami when Dean and Jerry came to Miami Beach in December, 1948, for an engagement at the Beachcomber Club. Two years had passed since they teamed up and Jerry persuaded Skinny d'Amato, owner of Atlantic City's 500 Club, to sign them as a comedy act. By the time they reached Miami, they were firmly established as the nation's newest and most successful comedy team.

Jeanne shares a coffee break with Dean on set of "Career," his latest movie.

Dean enjoys his family but allows each one to relax as he pleases. Jeanne phones while Dino and Craig watch TV. Gail and Dean, Jr., quietly play chess.

Ingenuity and modern techniques are cutting costs and improving the care of patients

MAYO CLINIC physicians had been planning a new kind of hospital for Rochester, Minn. It was to be a circular structure, where nurses at the center would be within 11 feet of all patients, able to see them at all times. Then they heard that the idea wasn't unique, that the Atomic Energy Commission was planning a similar hospital at Brookhaven, N. Y.

The Mayo doctors learned it was true, not only at Brookhaven but also in Brookline, Mass., and Van Nuys, Calif., where new hospitals will have patients on circular floors with nurses in the center, to save nursing mileage and assure better care.

In a variety of ways, many hospitals in the U. S. are using ingenuity and a willingness to break with traditions to solve many of their problems. But not only in construction is ingenuity at work. San Francisco's Mt. Zion Hospital has no new building. But it has a week-end hospitalization program for many people who need short-term treatment or diagnostic services. It saves time, money and worry and improves the hospital's efficiency.

Entering Mt. Zion up to 7 p.m. Friday, a patient can be ready to leave by 11 a.m. Sunday—after getting X-ray, laboratory and other services and treatment. Typical of many patients was the housewife who required minor surgery. She got it over a week end, while her husband was home to care for the children.

All hospitals are open seven days a week, but major services are provided on only five. Mark Berke, Mt. Zion's director, realized that not only did hospital expenses—for nurses, kitchen, janitors and so on—go right on over week ends, but also that week-end treatment would be ideal for many people. Why not have a full staff on duty for week ends? If short-term patients could be cared for then, empty beds would be filled, pressure taken off during the week and over-all operating costs spread over seven days.

It's a long way from Mt. Zion's week-end service to the University of Oklahoma's terminal rooming-in plan, but that is also a fresh approach.

For the process of giving birth, hospitals provide wonderful efficiency and safety. But many women and medical authorities wonder about the cold practice that separates mother and newborn child except for brief intervals.

A few hospitals have adopted the rooming-in principle, which calls for major changes, with special facilities to allow a mother to keep her baby with her all the time. Some think this plan has its drawbacks when a mother may be physically exhausted. But the Oklahoma terminal rooming-in plan is different. In the first days after birth, the mother sees the child only at feeding times, as at most hospitals. But on the final day, she has her baby in with her all day.

Intercom systems now permit patients to tell nurse their needs, thus saving her an extra walk from her desk to bed.

A nurse spends the better part of an hour orienting the mother on baby care in general and on her own infant's daily routine. All during the day she has the opportunity—as does her husband—to get to know her child, and to feed, handle, change and otherwise care for him.

SOME HOSPITALS have been devising better methods of care for sick children. One of the most heart-warming is the Mother's Bank at Chicago's Children's Memorial Hospital. The bank is composed of volunteers—most of them grandmothers, all of them kindly and experienced—whose job it is to "mother" sick babies, especially those with emotional disturbances. Each hospital "mother" is assigned to one baby during its entire stay. She is with the child six hours a day, not only feeding, bathing and changing it, but also holding and playing with the baby as much as possible.

Los Angeles Children's Hospital is meeting another problem. When a child is hospitalized, parents want to know what is being done. If they're ignored or given only a smattering of information, their worry might be communicated to the child. Leaving the problem to doctors and nurses isn't always satisfactory. Its solution was to appoint Marie Brotherton, a nurse out of uniform, to be Director of Parents' Public Relations. The hospital's operating room supervisor for 26 years, Miss Brotherton performs a host of valuable functions. When a child is to have an operation, she is the link between parents and operating room, providing information about the surgery and enabling the parents to be with their child immediately afterward.

Perhaps the most crucial medical problem today is the skyrocketing cost of hospital care—up 132 percent in eight years, while the consumer price index rose 37.6 percent.

Dr. Lowell T. Coggeshall, assistant to the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, has suggested that what we may need is a new concept of hospital operation to include "do-it-yourself" projects for patients to help bring down costs.

Cafeteria-style dining for patients who can walk replaces tray feeding, cuts down on expenses and boosts morale.

A start has been made with a new rehabilitation pavilion at Michael Reese Medical Center in Chicago. Probably the only facility ever built specifically to cut the time and cost of rehabilitation for convalescent patients, it is called "a bridge on the road to recovery between the hospital bed and the patient's own home," by Dr. Robert C. Levy, staff president.

Costs are cut by discouraging pampering. Accident victims, patients recovering from heart attacks and strokes and others on the mend are encouraged to eat in a community dining room. There are no hospital beds; instead, there are day beds that can be made up as studio couches. Patients are expected to care for themselves as much as their doctors allow. Not only are room rates in the "do-it-yourself" pavilion lower, but recovery periods are considerably shorter.

IN OTHER WAYS, hospitals are using new approaches to old problems.

There's the matter of gifts, often a headache for relatives and friends who puzzle over their choices, patients who are inundated with duplications of flowers, candy and fruit and hospital workers with extra cleanup work.

The Reading, Pa., Hospital's solution, a happy one, is a "Guest Card" plan. The card, sold by the hospital, reads: "Dear ———: This card indicates that you are my guest in the Reading Hospital for the day. I wish for you a speedy recovery. Sincerely, ———." The donor pays for one or more days of hospital care, signs the card and sends it to the patient. In addition to simplifying gift choices, the guest cards ease the financial burden of hospital care without embarrassment.

Hospitals are among the most complex of man's institutions, but a fresh approach can help solve most problems, with benefit to everybody concerned.

Getting patients off bed and on feet soon after operations is speeded up with a therapeutic handrail device.

This Saucy Ham Omelet is a choice dish to serve frequently as "Better-Breakfast" fare.

RELISHES FOR THE COFFEE HOUR

Some relishes may be eaten easily with the fingers; others need "stems" which can be wooden or plastic picks. Include one or more raw vegetable relishes such as carrot sticks, radish roses, cauliflowerets, celery curls or short lengths of stuffed celery. Flavorful fruit relishes could include small clusters of grapes, cherries with stems (in season), strawberries with hulls, melon balls, pineapple chunks or small orange sections on a pick. An appetizer-relish or two should appear along with the vegetables and fruit. Chipped beef, ham, sausage, olives, sweet pickles, cheese cubes, cream cheese and peanut butter are choice makin's for such appetizers. Arrange an assortment of these sweet and sour, bland and savory relishes attractively on a serving tray.

MEAT 'N' CHEESE PINUPS

With a round cutter, cut 2½- to 3-in. rounds from ¼-in. thick slices of ham, canned luncheon meat, ready-to-serve meat, bologna or other sausage. Repeat the process with ¼-in. slices of Swiss or Cheddar cheese. Stack alternate meat and cheese rounds, using five in all. Wrap in waxed paper and chill until time to serve. Cut stacks into ¾-in. wedge-shape pieces. Insert picks.

Biscuit Bites

Spread toasted bite-size shredded wheat biscuits with peanut butter. Insert picks and on each end of biscuit secure a thin slice of sweet pickle.

morning!

GET EACH DAY off to a good start with a breakfast that includes an adequate protein source, such as eggs, meat or milk. Plan ahead so that each member gets the food he needs to start the day. Usually there is at least a ten-hour stretch between dinner and breakfast, so it's smart planning to provide one-fourth to one-third of the day's calories at breakfast time.

If the morning hours appeal to you as the time for a committee meeting, an informal get-together or for entertaining for an out-of-town guest whose schedule is already full—plan a Morning Coffee. Informality is the keynote of this friendly 10 to 11 o'clock social gathering. Buffet service in the dining or living room is best for a large gathering, but smaller groups might prefer to gather around the kitchen table, out on the patio or on the back lawn.

Coffee cups, dessert plates, teaspoons and napkins are all you need. Have friends help themselves to relishes, coffee cake and a sweet roll. As hostess, you pour the coffee—and what a world of friendship there is in the smallest cup of coffee!

SCHNECKEN

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE: 40 MIN. TO BAKE 15-20 MIN.
(allow 3 to 4 hrs. for rising)

1 cup milk or cream, scalded
1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (110°F to 115°F)
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
5 cups sifted flour
2 eggs, well beaten
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
⅔ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup small pecan halves
1 cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup currants
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon

1. Soften yeast in water. Let stand 10 min.

2. Put sugar and salt into a large bowl. Pour scalded milk over ingredients in bowl and stir until sugar is dissolved. When lukewarm, blend in 1 cup of the flour, beating until smooth.

3. Stir yeast and add to mixture, mixing well. Add one-half of remaining flour and beat until smooth. Blend in eggs. Vigorously beat in softened butter, 2 tablespoons at a time. Beat in enough remaining flour to make soft dough. Turn onto lightly floured surface. Let stand 10 min.

4. Knead dough 5 to 8 min. Form dough into a large ball; place it in a greased deep bowl. Turn dough to bring greased surface to top. Cover with waxed paper and towel and let stand in warm place (about 80°F), until doubled. Punch down with fist; pull edges of dough in to center and turn completely over in bowl. Cover and let rise again until nearly doubled.

5. Put about 1 teaspoon of the melted butter in bottom of each of 24 2½-in. muffin-pan wells.

6. Mix together the chopped pecans, brown sugar, currants and cinnamon. Sprinkle 2 teaspoons of this mixture over butter in each muffin-pan well. Gently press 3 or 4 pecan halves onto mixture.

7. Again punch down dough and form it into two balls. Roll each ball on lightly floured surface into a rectangle ¼ in. thick, 6 to 8 in. wide and 12 in. long. Brush surface with melted butter and sprinkle evenly with brown sugar mixture.

8. Beginning with longer side, roll tightly into a long roll. Press edges to seal. Cut each into 12 slices. Place one slice in each muffin-pan well, cut side down. Cover and let rise until doubled.

9. Bake at 375°F 15 to 20 min. Invert muffin pans on cooling rack, leaving Schnecken in pan 5 min. Remove Schnecken from pan; cool, glaze side up.

Sandra Church

tops on the record shelves:

Columbia's "Gypsy" album, featuring Ethel Merman, Sandra Church and the original cast of the Broadway hit, and Decca's "Destry Rides Again" with the cast of that show, are both fine listening. Collectors will want to add "50 Never-Before-Released Original Performances by Glenn Miller," an RCA delight which includes three disks in deluxe wrapping. And for the jazzophiles, Dot's "Gilbert & Sullivan Revisited" by Manny Albam and the Jerry Duane Singers, and MGM's "The Seven Ages of Jazz," featuring an all-star cast, are both well worth your listening time.

music for family listening:

Let's sing our way down the wax trail, starting with Mercury's "Favorites from TV" by Patti Page, and following quickly with "Bing," a musical autobiography of der Bingle on Decca. The jeans set will find Tab Hunter's "When I Fall in Love" a Warner Brothers swoon whirl, while Mom will recall her "ooh" days with MGM's "Billy Daniels at the Stardust." RCA has a new Abbe Lane biscuit which could be a big one, "Where There's a Man," and from Capitol comes "The Letter," an offbeat bit ably handled by Judy Garland.

Recalling many memories is a new Dot LP, "The Great Millions," which spotlights such favorites as Pat Boone, Billy Vaughn and the Mills Brothers chanting their big hits. Felsted's "That Certain Boy" by Kathy Linden; "The Exciting Connie Francis" and "100 Strings and Joni James" both on MGM, and Camden's "Dream Street" by Tommy Leonetti are all excellent listening. Finally, for something a bit different, try "Kitty Jarvis Sings Supper-Club Favorites" on the Skyline label.

Modern Jazz Quartet

jazzomania:

There's something hot and something cool for the jazz bash this month. Atlantic's "The Modern Jazz Quartet at Music Inn, Vol. 2" leads the pack, with "Some Like It Hot" by Barney Kessel, Contemporary, a real winner. Ernestine Anderson is featured in a Mercury shellac identified only by her name. Here is a real bright newcomer to the jazz scene, one destined for big things. Marty Paich has a top effort in "The Broadway Bit" on Warner Brothers, while RCA has three excellent packages in "Stars of Jazz" by Bobby Troup, "Easy Now" with Ruby Braff and Shorty Rogers' "Chances Are It Swings."

special merit:

A truly stirring and exciting LP is "Ballad for Americans" with Dr. Norman Soreng Wright and the Sanctuary Choir on Dot. For those on a budget, try "Porgy and Bess" with Lawrence Tibbett and Helen Jepson on Camden, and for a top film score, spin "John Paul Jones" via Warner Brothers. Finally if you're a weight-watcher, "Slimnastics" with Dr. Charles A. Bucher, Decca, will help you reduce.

stereo sound-off:

London once again offers some excellent stereo packages in the classical field, starting with the score of "The Merry Widow" with various artists and the Vienna State Opera Orchestra, and follows with highlights from "Cosi Fan Tutte" by the Vienna Philharmonic, starring some magnificent voices; Rachmaninoff's "Concerto No. 2 in C Minor" and Balakirec's "Islamey" with pianist Julius Katchen and the London Symphony, and Mendelssohn's "Symphony No. 4" played by the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra. Decca offers Michel Piastro and his orchestra in "The Best of Strauss," and from Coral comes "Les Bi ets Africains" by De Keita Fodeba.

new sound — pop beat:

In a modern mood with the stereo sound, try "Latin Holiday" by Dante Varela on Decca; the original sound track of "Porgy and Bess," one of the finest waxings we've heard all year, on Columbia, which also offers "Jazz Party in Stereo" with Duke Ellington as your host; "Victory at Sea" by Robert Russell Bennett and "More Music from Peter Gunn" by Henry Mancini, RCA.

From Capitol Tower comes "The Kingston Trio at Large," "They Said It Couldn't Be Done" by the Mighty Accordion Band, and Ray Anthony's "Sound Spectacular," all ideally suited to show off your new system. London's top dance-music maker, Ted Heath, offers "Shall We Dance" to a binaural beat, and Felsted joins the chorus with "Never Too Late for Dancing," featuring Joe Leahy and his fine musicians.

GIL HODGES
HAD TO COME BACK ALONE

Mrs. Joan Hodges and children (Cynthia and Irene shown here) meant more to Gil Hodges than homers, as last season's hitting proved.

Last year Brooklyn's hero was Los Angeles' goat; that's changed now, thanks to a homesick wife who made a sacrifice

by Ed Fitzgerald

THEY THOUGHT Gil Hodges was through after last year. He was one of the biggest names and brightest stars of the colorful Dodgers who had moved from Brooklyn to Los Angeles but, like the ball club itself, he had flopped miserably in his new surroundings.

The best he could do was hit .259, a 40-point drop from his average of the year before, and he had suffered the humiliation of seeing his job taken from him by a raw rookie.

Even more painful was the way the fans climbed on him. It seemed as though they were picking him as scapegoat for their disappointment in the highly advertised Dodgers, who skidded to seventh place in California. Gil couldn't understand it; in Brooklyn, the fans had always loved him. Once, when he was battling a terrific slump, Father Herbert Redmond, saying Mass at St. Francis Xavier Church in Brooklyn, told his flock: "It's too hot for a sermon. Go home, keep the Commandments and say a prayer for Gil Hodges." That was the way it used to be.

But worst of all for family-man Gil Hodges, whose wife and three children mean more to him than anything else, was the fact that things were as bad at home as on the field. Gil's wife, Joan, is a Brooklyn girl and, although Gil comes from Indiana, he was happy to settle down in a house in Brooklyn after their marriage in 1948. It was pleasant for Joan because her own family was nearby, and her mother and sister dropped in almost every day. When Gil went on the road with the ball club, Joan wasn't alone.

But in California, everything was different. Joan felt uprooted, and when Gil was on a long trip, she felt desperately alone. She was unhappy and dissatisfied, and Gil suffered with her.

Gil was only 35 years old, in perfect condition, but apparently he was all washed up. He wasn't meeting the ball well, he killed one Dodger rally after another by striking out or popping up, and he tried so many cures for his batting failures that he became hopelessly confused at the plate. He had lost confidence, and it was clear that unless something drastic was done, Gil Hodges' great career was going to end.

It was Joan who seized upon the solution. Nobody knows better than she that Gil isn't the kind of husband and father who can forget about his family when he goes off to work. Little Gilly, Irene and Cynthia are his pets, and there is nothing he wouldn't do for Joan. Once he refused to report to spring training until their first child was born. Another time he jumped the club during training and flew home without permission to make sure Joan was all right after Cynthia was born. It stood to reason that if Joan was miserable, Gil was going to be, too.

"I realized that I'd been hurting Gil, acting the way I was and carrying on so," Joan says, "and I made up my mind that the best thing I could do for him was to stay home all summer."

"Home," for the Hodges family, is still Brooklyn. So Joan and the kids stayed with Gil during spring training, as is their custom, and then, for the first time, said goodbye to Daddy and went north to Flatbush while he flew west with the Dodgers.

By midseason Gil Hodges, reestablished as the regular first-baseman of the ball club, was hitting close to .300, walloping home runs at his old-time rate and breaking up ball games with the key hit in the clutch.

Gil has never been a high-average hitter. In 10 full seasons in Brooklyn, he got over .300 only twice, hitting .302 in 1953 and .304 the next year. But ever since he played high-school ball in Petersburg, Ind., and later at St. Joseph's College near home, he has been able to generate tremendous power. He went into the 1959 season with 320 home runs and with seven years of 100 or more runs-batted-in. That's power hitting. Gil takes a full cut at the pitch and his thickly muscled shoulders and arms are capable of driving the ball out of sight if he gets even a fair piece of it. On the night of Aug. 31, 1950, at Ebbets Field, he smashed four home runs in a single game against the Braves, throwing the stands into such a turmoil that Joan closed her eyes when he swung for the fourth one.

SIX-FEET, one-and-a-half inches tall, 200 pounds of solid bone and muscle, Gil is regarded by his fellow ball players as one of the strongest men in the game. He has hands like hams. "Gil doesn't really need a glove to play first base," Pee Wee Reese jokes, "He just wears one because it's fashionable." It was this sheer physical power of Gil's that made it so hard for baseball people to believe he didn't have it any more. But the important thing was that Gil didn't believe it, and neither did Joan, and they had the courage to try a desperate remedy.

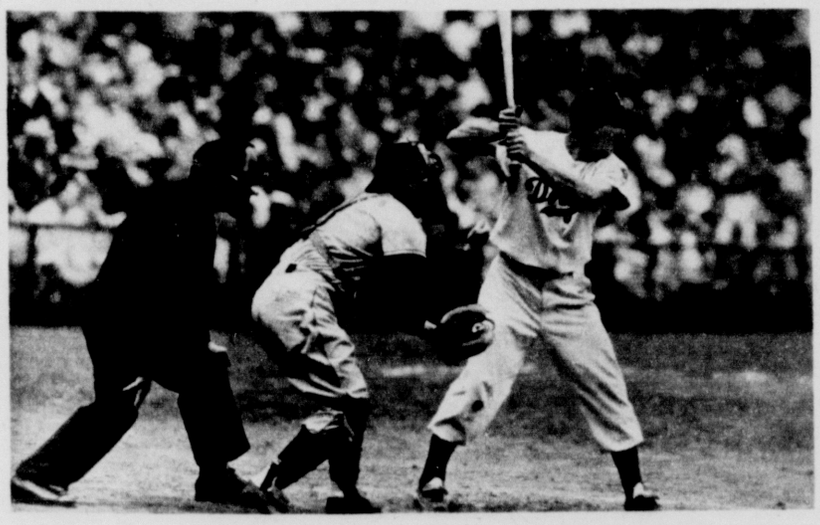
The summer headlines tell how effective it is:

HODGES' HOME RUN IN NINTH BEATS GIANTS . . . GIL HODGES HOMERS WITH TWO ON TO BEAT PHILLIES. The quiet man with the big muscles was on the beam again, and it was more than a coincidence that the Los Angeles Dodgers, consigned to fifth place by most experts in preseason doping, were battling tooth and claw for the pennant. They made new fans in California whoop with joy as they waged a knock-down, drag-out fight with the San Francisco Giants for the honor of dethroning the defending champion Milwaukee Braves.

And whether, in the end, they win or lose, they know that they have the old Gil Hodges back. He had to come back alone, but he's made it.



While slumping Gil tried new stances, Joan came up with the real cure-all.

Plagued Day And Night with Bladder Discomfort?

Unwise eating or drinking may be a source of mild, but annoying bladder irritations — making you feel restless, tense, and uncomfortable. And if restless nights, with nagging backache, headache or muscular aches and pains due to over-exertion, strain or emotional upset, are adding to your misery—don't wait—try Doan's Pills.

Doan's Pills act 3 ways for speedy relief. 1 — They have a soothing effect on bladder irritations. 2 — A fast pain-relieving action on nagging backache, headaches, muscular aches and pains. 3 — A wonderfully mild diuretic action thru the kidneys, tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes. So, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. New, large economy size saves money. Get Doan's Pills today!

Washington Off Guard

by Robert Striar

TO THE Washington, D. C., tourist, it is sometimes difficult to distinguish Capital celebrities from the countless statues lining its malls. Both are dignified, formal—and seemingly inanimate. But over an hors d'oeuvre or gossip tidbit, the stony faces brighten like an old friend's, and their studied grace becomes as gauche as schoolkids at the junior prom. As a Washington society photographer, I'm often nearby at these moments. The pictures I take aren't prettily posed or self-consciously important. They simply prove that people are people regardless of title, dress or surroundings.

Still quite active in politics, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt keeps her hat on while attending Democratic fete.

Dubious expression steals across face of Mamie Eisenhower during luncheon chat with Mrs. Alvin O'Konskie, wife of the Congressman from Wisconsin.

Mrs. Wilton B. Persons, wife of General who replaced Sherman Adams, bestows pat on cheek of White House staffer Earle Chesney.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee wore costume at Mardi Gras ball. Fancy dress was optional.

Rep. D. S. Saund of California demonstrates iron grip on Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, wife of Texas Senator, at Indian Embassy reception.

Perhaps discussing old times: former Senator Joseph Ball, Minnesota, and ex-Secy. of State Dean Acheson.

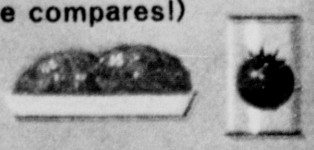
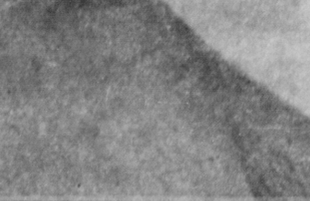
WHAT'S THE SECRET INGREDIENT IN GREAT SPAGHETTI?

It's you! When you add the tomato paste, you get oceans of sauce. When you add the meat, you get fresh, meat flavor. (No out-of-a-can spaghetti sauce compares!)



All anyone else should prepare for you is what Kraft brings you in Kraft Spaghetti Dinner: fragrant herbs and spices, grated parmesan cheese, and thin, thin spaghetti.



Take 15 minutes today, and try it! You get 4 good helpings. And you can tell by the heavenly smell, this is real Italian-style spaghetti!

In Canada, too!

If I hadn't been chosen "Orange Bowl Queen" and invited to the University's celebration at the club, chances are we'd never have met. Few of the boys I dated could afford the Beachcomber.

Frankly, I fell for Dean the instant he introduced himself. Six-feet tall, black-haired, brown-eyed, and well-built, he was just about the handsomest, most sophisticated man I've ever met. And how he knew the right things to say! I couldn't have been more impressed. And my parents couldn't have been more upset when we started to date. Dean just wasn't the kind of person respectable middle-class parents wanted as a son-in-law.

All the traits I liked in him worried them. He was too old for me, they said. Too sophisticated. He was in show business. He couldn't possibly be serious about a girl like me. And when they found out he was married, though separated, and the father of four children, the bottom fell out!

Dean played it smart. He divided his attention between my mother and me, knowing that once he had her on his side, his problem was licked. In the end, Mom fell for his charm just as I did. Dad held out a little longer, but not much.

The moment Dean left for the West Coast where he and Jerry had been signed to a long-term contract by Hal Wallis, my family and friends prophesied I'd seen the last of him. I wasn't so sure they were wrong. In spite of his daily calls, I spent an uneasy six weeks till he sent for me in early February. Mom came along—to make sure his intentions remained honorable!

At 1949 wedding Dean gets best wishes of night-club owner Herman Hover.

("And they lived happily ever after" did not apply to the Dean Martins. A honeymoon with Jerry Lewis along was just the beginning. Financial troubles and personality problems—some funny, some not—complicated life in Hollywood and led to separation. Mrs. Martin gives the details next week in Family Weekly.)

A talk with a friend

CULTURE?

Why we've even got it in our ketchup!

ONE OF THE most widely misunderstood words in America is the word "culture."

A great number of people think of culture as something relating to symphony orchestras, art galleries, the artistic output of a nation or of refined people with highly cultivated manners, taste and thought.

But the culture of a country is actually the way in which a country lives. If a nation is a nation of headhunters, then its particular cultural activity is hunting heads.

With so many people traveling back and forth to Europe, we often hear that Europe is "cultural" and America "has no culture."

What they really mean is that Europe, having so many more centuries to allow its more lasting and more beautiful customs and works of genuine merit to emerge and become widely familiar, just has a head start on this younger nation.

It would be hard to say that this nation has no culture—a nation so rich in the traditions of its early struggles for survival, so rambunctious with its tales of the winning of the West, so ringing with the tunes of the old banjos and the modern jazz artists, so enduringly expressed on the canvases of Audubon and the cowboy artist Frederic Remington, so quick to see the humor in any situation, so eager for the fun of Mark Twain and the emotion of Carl Sandburg.

To the man who questions the culture of America, let me invite him to sit in a box seat and watch Stan Musial lash a grand-slam home run, or to stroll quietly in front of the magnificent Lincoln Memorial in Washington and look up at that man who "belongs to the ages." Lincoln's success is testimony to the greatest cultural achievement: a form of government where a gangling, rawboned man can fight his way from backwoods cabin to the highest position in the land.

To the world traveler who raves of the kitchen artistry of other lands, let me invite him to step into a farm kitchen in the Pennsylvania Dutch country, pick up the old wooden spoon and taste the homemade ketchup simmering in the big pot on the back of the stove. An impartial jury of wise (and hungry) men would be hard put to point to any finer artistic achievement than that!

Blindman's Serenade

Tom Jones

If eight to ten people play, this is fun! The blindfolded player holds a wand. The players walk around him, all humming the same favorite tune. Then the blindman taps the floor with the wand. The players stop, and the blindman points to one of them with the wand, who grabs the other end and sings do, re, me, fa, so, la, ti, do, until the blindman guesses who he is. If right, he and the singer change places. If wrong, the game goes on and he tries another player.

Hay Fever Patients now open Nose-Sinus Zone with New 3-Layer Tablet

Clear, free breathing restored in minutes as congested nasal zone is decongested— stops sneezing, watery, itching eyes

Chicago, Ill. (Special) Observers here are hailing a remarkable new advance against the most unrelenting misery of hay fever – congestion in the nose-sinus zone.

A way has been found to decongest this congestion. This is the central fact which has aroused so much interest on the part of hay fever sufferers who have never found satisfactory relief from other medications.

Up to now, nose drops, eye drops, inhalers, sprays and antihistamines have given some measure of relief. But today you can expect much more complete comfort. This new compound reaches all the congested nasal areas from all sides, through the blood stream. It opens stuffed-up, blocked nasal passages. Free breathing is restored in minutes. Stops unpleasant sneezing; watery, itching eyes are cleared.

New Tablet Discovery

It took a new kind of tablet–made in three separate layers–to combine the special ingredients which make this formula so amazingly effective. Among them is a new decongestant substance so effective it has become the single ingredient most prescribed by doctors for relief of congestion in the nose-sinus area.

Available without Prescription

Now available without prescription – this new 3-layer tablet is called Dristan®. Its unique combination of ingredients–(1)opens up blocked breathing, (2) stops unpleasant sneezing, (3) clears red, watery, itching eyes. At the same time, Dristan helps the body meet the great demands put upon it by the stress and strain of hay fever, and bolsters the body's resistance to infection.

Hay fever sufferers who want faster, more complete relief than they have ever before obtained are advised to try Dristan Decongestant Tablets–satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.
